"BIG BILL" SAYS COLEMAN WAS HIS FARO GUIDE

From Cell 9, in the Charles Street Jail, where he awaited release under $25,000 bail on the charge of aiding and abetting George W. Coleman in the looting of the Cambridge National City Bank, "Big Bill" Keliher to-day made his first explanation of his connection with the young bank wrecker.

"Big Bill" made the astonishing statement that it was Coleman who took him, instead of him taking Coleman, to New York and introduced him to the faro sharks.

COLEMAN A GUIDE TO FINANCIERS.

He asserted that Coleman had taken a number of men prominent in Boston's financial world to New York, where he acquainted them with the same form of financial dissipation.

Keliher further asserted that Coleman had stolen $200,000 of the bank's money before the bank clerk ever met him.

The Federal Grand Jury reports at 10 o'clock to-morrow, and it is believed that quickly after that there will be one or more sensational arrests in the case.

This is the statement made to-day by Keliher:

"I did not take George W. Coleman to New York. Coleman took me there. That may sound queer, but it's true.

"You must remember that I never met Coleman until last May. Up to that time, according to the facts ascertained by the bank officials and his own statement, Coleman had already stolen from the bank about $200,000.

Didn't Have to Coax.

"Coleman took me to New York and I was there but a few moments when I found that he had been there before many times. I found also that one of the hardest things the New Yorkers had to do was not to get him over there from Boston, but to keep him away.

"Coleman liked the game so well that he told others in Boston about it and recommended it to them. Among them were some who are prominent in the Boston financial world.

"Remember that this was all two years ago before I knew him. That New York game was a revelation to me. Coleman was an old hand at it when I became acquainted with it.

Money from Rich Aunt.

"Did I know that he got the funds from the bank? Impossible. He always maintained that he got his money as a legacy from a rich aunt—a legacy so large that all he was spending was the income from it and that he never touched the principal.

"When I get out of here—and I hope that will be a matter of a few hours—I'm going to make a fuller statement, and I will so substantiate it with facts that will be susceptible of easy proof that I'll no longer be considered an object of curiosity or a desperate character.

"They are loading things on me pretty heavy when they charge me with aiding and abetting the looting of this bank through the young man when I did not know the chap until the bulk of the stealing had been going on for two years."

FIND BODY OF AN UNKNOWN IN WATER

The body of an unknown man was found to-day in the mouth of Belle Isle inlet, East Boston, by employes of the Metropolitan Coal Company. The body was attired in a blue suit, with blue tie, white collar, light shirt and tan shoes. It is thought that the body is that of the man who was knocked off the Bennet bridge by a Narrow Gauge railroad railroad train on April 6. A letter from Mrs. D. E. McIntyre of North Berwick, Maine, to Watchman John Donovan of the Metropolitan Coal wharf asked for a description of the man who fell into the water on the night of April 6.

SEES 301 MAJORITY FOR THE DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Democrats will have a majority of 301 in the House next November, if the rate of gain shown by three special congressional elections in different parts of the country continues, is the declaration of Representative Sherwood of Ohio. The aggregate gain in these three, the Sixth Missouri, Fourteenth Massachusetts and Thirty-second New York districts, according to General Sherwood, is 38,285, or an average gain for each district of 12,760.

CONSECRATE BISHOP OF LONDON, ONT.

LONDON, Ont., April 25.—Right Rev. Michael F. Fallon, Bishop of London, was consecrated in St. Peter's Cathedral to-day. The ceremonies were attended by one of the largest and most notable assemblages ever seen in the Dominion. The witnesses of this elaborate and most impressive elevation of a priest to one of the highest offices of the Roman Catholic church included personal friends of the esteemed Bishop from all over the United States and several who came from Europe.

REBELS CRUSHED BY TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 25.—In a terrible battle the Albanian rebels were crushed to-day by a heavy force of Turkish troops in the Demnlezadi district of Albania. The government army attacked first and led the fighting. The Albanians were driven to flight into the hills. Many were captured. The regulars continued the pursuit after the rebels' ranks broke.

Hundreds have fallen in the battle, according to semi-official advices received here. Definite information is retarded by lack of wire facilities, all paths of communication having been interfered with by the Albanians in their long campaign of desultory fighting.

A demand for reinforcements reached here to-day, and preparations to dispatch a large body of men were immediately made by the government.

It is believed that the revolt has reached its crisis and that a sharp victory by the Turkish troops will result in the abandonment of the rebellion.

HEINZE, PARTNER OF MORSE, FACES COURT

NEW YORK, April 25.—After a delay of two years and a half, F. Augustus Heinze, the associate of Charles W. Morse in many of the latter's financial operations, was placed on trial to-day in the United States Circuit Court on the charge of misapplication of the funds of the Mercantile National Bank, while he was its president.

Heinze has been indicted four times, on an aggregate of seventy-eight counts, but thirty-three of these counts have been thrown out by the courts. On the forty-five counts remaining Heinze can be sentenced to a maximum of 225 years in prison and to pay fines amounting to $225,000.

GEMS IN BUSHEL CHURCH COLLECTION

NEW YORK, April 25.—With the help of an appraiser, Canon William Sheafe Chase engaged to-day in examining a bushel of gold, gems and silverware, the proceeds of a unique collection taken at Christ Protestant Episcopal Church in Brooklyn. The collection is to secure a fund for paying off a debt on the rectory. Ushers carried big baskets down the aisles, and into these the congregation dropped bits of precious metals in the shape of jewelry and coins, every article being securely wrapped and sealed. A sale will be held later.

COLD WAVE SENDS COTTON PRICE UP

NEW YORK, April 25.—Widespread reports of crop damage by the cold wave sweeping the South, together with aggressive tactics of Southern bulls and efforts of many of the bears to cover their shorts led to an excited opening in the cotton market to-day, with prices all up and October registering a gain of 31 points, $1.55 per bale, before 11 o'clock. The old crops started in from 45 to 55 cents per bale higher.

CHINESE CHRISTIANS HORRIBLY TORTURED

HANKOW, April 25.—Many thousands of Chinese are daily joining the holy war being waged against the foreigners and native Christians.

Rioting in the province of Hu-Hankus has spread throughout many districts of Hupe. Pillage and slaughter were kept up to-day.

Fugitives are pouring in from various districts with tales of horror. While the safety of many Caucasians, for the most part missionaries, is in doubt, the trouble has generally settled into a war of extermination of native Christians, hundreds of whom have been tortured or slain.

Every hour brings news of fresh atrocities. There is even some disorder within the city of Hankow. The situation is constantly increasing in seriousness.

Refugees arriving to-day brought word of the terrible war against the native converts.

Their hatred of the renegades of the native religions given full sway, the mobs have exhausted even Chinese ingenuity in torturing the native Christians. Every punishment of criminals known to Chinese criminal lore is practiced by the mobs, and tortures never before used, some of them unspeakable, as well.

In some instances the victims' tongues have been torn out by the roots, and they have been set loose, often blinded, and mockingly told to preach the new creed. Bound till they could scarcely move a muscle, others have been tickled continually until their brains gave way.

The water torture, the steady dropping of water on one spot of the body, has been frequently employed by the vengeful mobs. After the 400th drop this torture is excruciating; in one instance reported to-day more than 3,000 drops were used. In one instance an old woman was bound and her teeth were filed away to the gums. Finger and toe nails of others have been pulled out.

Definite information regarding many missionaries in the remoter parts of the province is still lacking. It is known that orders were sent to nearly all the stations advising them to flee to points of safety at their discretion. Some, however, are believed to be in danger.

40 WELLESLEY GIRLS IN PERIL

Forty Wellesley College girls, waiting at the Wellesley station for a Boston-bound train, fled to-day when a horse, frightened at the shrieking of a locomotive, dashed across the station platform and tracks.

Several had narrow escapes from being knocked down and trampled upon. The nervous shock was too much for some of the other girls, who were forced to return home.

When John Dunbar ran after the runaway his dog followed. Barking and snapping the dog veered the frightened horse toward a brakeman's shanty, where the animal halted long enough for Dunbar to grasp the bridle.

No one was in the carriage, the owner, Helen Webster of Haverhill, a Wellesley girl, having left the buggy just before the horse bolted.

U. S. SENATOR SMITH ILL.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 25.—U. S. Senator John Walter Smith of Maryland, is ill at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, N. J., as the result of a severe attack of rheumatism.

GALE WRECKS ZEPPELIN II.

BERLIN, April 25.—Torn from its moorings by a gale, the dirigible Zeppelin II. was to-day sent derelict through the air at a speed of a mile a minute from Limburg to the vicinity of Weilburg, where it was dashed to the ground and wrecked. One man was fatally hurt.

The Zeppelin II., which was built by popular subscription after its predecessor was wrecked, was the foremost dirigible in the world. Within a short time after it was driven away from Limburg, searching parties of soldiers were ordered out. News of its being wrecked came from Weilburg, thirty miles away. That distance had been covered in half an hour.

While the gas bags were rent and the frame work twisted, it is believed that the damage can be repaired for about half the original cost.

The other dirigibles that made the trip from Cologne to Hamburg—the Gos I. and the Parseval II., are reported safe.

A Want Advt. is often the road to fortune.

COFFIN'S ACCOUNTS UNDER SCRUTINY

Deceased Representative Was Town Treasurer of West Newbury—Books Show Large Discrepancy, and Expert Is Called to Examine Them.

NEWBURYPORT, April 25.—The friends of the late Samuel F. Coffin, Representative from the Twenty-sixth District and Town Treasurer of West Newbury, were shocked to-day when it was reported that an examination of his books showed an apparent shortage in his accounts of between $5,000 and $6,000.

The Selectmen of the town have taken steps to get an expert to go over the books carefully to see how much the shortage is and how the funds were used, if possible.

TOWN TREASURER FOR A DOZEN YEARS.

Coffin had been treasurer of the town for a dozen years and stood high in this section of the State, being elected to the Legislature as a Democrat in a strong Republican district for three years.

The friends of Coffin say that there must be some mistake in the books, that he could not have used the town's money dishonestly. They argue that he was a very busy man and that he may not have taken much care with the books. One man suggested that he may have paid out money for the town legitimately and made a memorandum of it which the books do not show.

There was never anything in the life of Coffin to indicate that he was spending more money than he obtained legitimately, and the verdict of the people will be strongly in his favor until the expert shows something to the contrary, if he can find it.

WHISKY DEATHS NOW 14

NIANTIC, Ct., April 25.—Michael Reilly, twenty-five, died here to-day as the result of drinking poisoned whiskey, believed to have been purchased in Westerly, R. I.

Reilly is the fourteenth person to die from poisoned whiskey in this vicinity.

The authorities here know where Reilly purchased the whiskey as a friend accompanied him when he bought it. It is probable that the friend will be held as a witness, and that action will be taken against the persons who sold the whiskey.

Reilly was not feeling well Saturday night. He purchased some whiskey and drank a little. His condition did not improve, so he drank more yesterday. He went to bed at 9 o'clock last night. Early to-day he woke up with all the symptoms of poisoning. Dr. A. B. Briggs of Asheway, R. I., administered heroic treatment, but no purpose, as Reilly died shortly after.

Medical Examiner H. E. Rouse was notified and after an examination declared that Reilly had all the symptoms of wood alcohol poisoning. ell arranged for an autopsy later in the day.

APPEAL FOR GLOVER CASE FRAMED TODAY

The lawyers who contested the Glover will for the four disinherited Glover brothers began to-day to frame their appeal to the Supreme Court from the decision against them handed down by Judge Charles J. McIntire. It was learned that one of their strongest points is that they have evidence intended to prove that the weapon with which Clarence F. Glover was murdered was bought by his widow, Mrs. Lillian M. Glover.

In his decision Judge McIntire called attention to this claim of the contestants in this language:

"I have considered the desire and offer of the contestants to introduce additional testimony relating to circumstances connected with the death of Glover, the purchase and identification of a certain revolver said to be in the hands of the police as the weapon which caused his death, which revolver the contestants claim can be shown to have been purchased by Mrs. Glover about that time."

At the trial Thomas Coffey, the man who sold the death weapon, testified that a woman of the size and same characteristics as Mrs. Glover bought the revolver. Mrs. Glover was not in court when Coffey testified, but it is beliefed that he has had a chance to see her since and he may be the witness upon whom the contestants rely.

Lawyer Alton F. Tupper, who with Samuel D. Elmore conducted the case in behalf of Mrs. Glover, said to-day that Mrs. Glover was still outside of the State taking a rest. He would not say where she is. In speaking of the decision of Judge McIntire he wrote this:

"I consider the opinion a careful and logical one and entirely in accord with Judge McIntire's reputation for fairness and ability. It once more emphasizes the fact that judicial decisions in this Commonwealth are based on evidence and not on idle rumors and unfounded allegations."

CHELSEA PROTESTS BIG BILL BOARD

Prominent Chelsea residents, before the Legislative Committee on Rules at the State House today, protested against a billboard which has been recently constructed by John Donnelly & Sons Company on Washington avenue, which they characterized as a public nuisance. The bill board is 100 feet long and 20 feet high. They asked for some sort of legislation that will give them permission to have the billboard torn down. Former-Representative Joseph H. Soliday of Dedham, counsel for the Donnelly Company, said that the granting of any such permission as was desired by the Chelsea people would be unconstitutional.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, April 25.—The Red Sox decided it was about time to win a game from the Athletics so they made careful preparations to annex the contest this afternoon. The fans thought so, too, and they hoped there would be no more bone-headed exhibitions. It is necessary to play ball all the time when a club meets any team Connie Mack puts in the field. There can be no mistake of commission or omission.

Joe Wood was pretty ready to take his turn in the box to-day and he went through a warming up process to see how good his injured hand felt. It was the kind of day for Joe, a cloudy fellow, which would help his speed count. Donovan had Arellanes and Collins on tap, also.

Coombs and Cy Morgan seemed the likely candidates from the Mack stable of box artists. Coombs lost his last game to the Senators and Morgan was beaten out by the Highlanders, 1 to 0. Chief Bender was on deck, too, ready for work. Mack was sorry he didn't have another left-handed of the proper calibre to send against the Red Sox. The day was cloudy but the crowd was greater than it would have been in any other big league city under the circumstances.

SPRINGFIELD PIANO DEALER BANKRUPT

Louis N. Barthler, a piano dealer of Springfield and Holyoke, to-day filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court. His liabilities are $62,804.76 and his assets $32,200.76. Of this latter amount $27,703 is in bills receivable. The heaviest creditors are Jacob Doll & Sons, New York, $24,448.98, and J. N. Hubbard, Holyoke, $10,550.

INSURGENTS WILL BACK TAFT POLICIES

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Representatives Fish of New York, Wood of Iowa and Hayes of California, representing the House insurgent Republicans, called at the White House to-day to assure President Taft that the insurgents will support his legislative programme.

NATIONAL LEAGUE GROUNDS, Philadelphia, April 25.—The Doves resolved to see how it felt to score a run to-day. They were blanked Friday and Saturday by the Phillies and didn't enjoy their Sunday layoff a bit.

"What we need as much as anything just now are a few hitters," said Manager Fred Lake. "We can do better than we have showed here, however, and I told my players to wake up and get busy this afternoon."

Buster Brown asked permission to twirl the game to-day, but Lake said he would have to look him over in a warming up before the game and waited until the last minute before taking his pick.

The Phillies looked upon the visitors as easy and decided it was a good chance for them to strengthen their hold on first place. "We are 30 per cent. stronger than we were last year," declared Manager Dooin, "and we have the right spirit now. Watch us. We will be right there all the time."

MISSING WIFE AND BOARDER ARRESTED

Charged with the larceny of $300 cash and $450 worth of jewelry and clothing from Vincenzo Aveni of No. 16 Dacia street, Roxbury, Mrs. Geatana Aveni, his wife, and Pietro Russo, a boarder, were arrested to-day in White Plains, N. Y., for the Boston police on an indictment warrant. Mrs. Aveni and her boarder Russo disappeared on March 16. The husband's savings and valuables disappeared on the same day. Mr. Aveni left behind her an eighteen months old baby and another three years old. Inspector George Farrell of Police Headquarters left to bring the couple back.

SAPHTHA EXPLODES, CAUSING $200 FIRE

The explosion of a can of naphtha on the second floor of the four-story brick building at No. 724 Washington street caused $200 damage shortly before noon today. The fire was in the loft occupied by John Fisheiberg. The building is owned by the Brigham estate. A still alarm called the firemen, who prevented the flames spreading.

ASK BOSTON POLICE TO GET FUGITIVE

Police Commissioner William F. Baker of New York to-day requested the Boston police to assist him in locating John J. Cauldwell, a former employe of the department of docks and ferries. Cauldwell is wanted in New York for grand larceny, according to the notices read to the Boston police officers.

"COLEMAN LED ME ASTRAY," IS KELIHER'S AMAZING ACCUSATION

Secret service men and United States marshals are bending every effort to locate Frank Henderson of New York, an intimate acquaintance of "Big Bill" Kelliher, George W. Coleman, other faro bank swindlers and the women who figure in the bank looting.

Henderson's present whereabouts are unknown, but it is believed that he will try to communicate with Miss Laura Atwood or Arnold, the young woman whose evidence corroborated by that of Wilson W. Lockhart warranted the arrest of "Big Bill" Keliher.

Woman Tells All.

Another young woman, who, with Henderson, is being sought, resided in West Forty-first street, New York, where Mamie Hightower and Laura Atwood were met by "Big Bill" Keliher and George W. Coleman. The young women and their callers were on the most confidential of terms, it has been learned, and the evidence of the missing woman, whose name is not given publicly, would serve as needed corroboration.

A thorough watch has been kept on the movements of Coleman and Keliher, and when it was found that they were acquainted with Miss Atwood and her antecedents were established she was given a chance to tell what she knew. At first she declared, it is said, that she had no information as to Keliher's relations with Coleman, but other startling information was given.

It was said that Coleman met Mamie Hightower, the girl from Kansas City, whom he has been reported to have married, in Ne wYork. Miss Hightower, it is said, was known to Coleman as "Jack Holman." Laura M. Atwood's right name is said to be Arnold, and she is reported to originally have come from Philadelphia.

From appearances it might be suspected that the case is now very rapidly being brought to a climax wholly satisfactory to the Federal authorities for developments of the past few days have evidently caused the Federal authorities to be full of assurance.

"It has been intimated that the arrest of Keliher and subsequent events resulted in the scattering of the members of the faro gang who had returned to Boston or its vicinity.

It is possible that all of these men have been constantly under watch and can be apprehended at any moment that their presence is desired in Boston.

It has been generally accepted that Keliher was never for an instant out of reach of the Federal agents since he returned to Boston, and it is not unlikely that his every step, action and most of his words, as well as the identity of the persons with whom he has been from time to time are known.

Certain men and women who are said to have been in his company at Winthrop and in Boston hotels and other houses and their conversations since his return to Boston some three weeks ago are probably known to the Federal authorities.

French Has Mysterious Callers.

United States District Attorney French has received several mysterious men and women callers during the past few weeks who are reported to have confided important matters to him.

Certain automobile parties, hotel dinners and nocturnal automobile rides to popular road houses which are said to have been participated in by persons mentioned as directly interested in the case have furnished an endless amount of gossip, and much of the information is said to have been carried to the Federal authorities.

Keliher's name, it is said, is not the only one which has been mentioned in these stories. Much that happened a year ago, and within that time, in the New York house and in the presence of the women is said to have been recently confided to certain of the Federal authorities.

Story Denied by Mother.

Mrs. Walter G. Coleman, mother of George W. Coleman, said to-day in reference to a report that George had stolen $8,000 two years ago, and that his father had paid the money to the bank, that it was a downright lie.

"The story that he has $100,000 secreted some place, is also untrue," said the mother. If George had $100,000 the faro gang would have had it long ago."

QUICK ACTION PRESCRIPTION CURES COLDS IN A DAY

What is said to be the best and quickest prescription known to medical science for colds and coughs is as follows. "Get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful of this mixture after each meal and at bed time, shake the bottle well each time." This has cured hundreds here. Be sure to get only the genuine Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes put up in a tin screw-top case. Any druggist has it on hand or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Don't use the weaker pine preparations.

SCORES LOBBY THAT ROBS UNEMPLOYED

Supt. Walter L. Sears of the State Free Employment Bureau on Kneeland street declares that there is a private employment agency lobby active on Beacon Hill. Supt. Sears spoke on "The Unemployed" before the Brotherhood Club of Ruggles Street Baptist Church yesterday. He accused some of the employment bureaus of fleecing the unemployed and of defeating corrective legislation. In speaking of the side-tracking of two bills to regulate the agencies, he said:

"There must be a pernicious lobby at work in the interest of the private agencies at the State House, or both of these bills would not have been lost for fifteen and three years respectively. I know for a fact that some of the agencies in Boston are bold-faced frauds and fleecers."

A Bargain Dialogue

A young woman artist who does some of the illustrating for our Tunnel Bargain Basement advertising and whose work for several years in sketching garments has made her experienced as regards style and value took up one of the suits that we shall have on sale tomorrow at 6.90.

"I don't see how it is possible to make up suits like that to sell for such a low price as 6.90," she remarked. "How can the manufacturer make any profit?"

"The chances are he didn't. Nothing is bought for the Tunnel Bargain Basement, you know, excepting merchandise that is sacrificed for some reason or other."

"I think a lot of women are suspicious of the greater part of bargain advertising—they don't believe the goods will be as good as advertised. If more people could actually see the quality of these garments they would have greater faith in bargain advertising."

This thought will probably occur to you man y times this week—how can they do it.

ALWAYS REMEMBER that we will pay 5.00 Reward for any instance where the facts do not follow out our advertising to the letter.

HOSPITAL FIRE SCARES BACK BAY PATIENTS

The patients at Eliot Hospital, a six-story brick building at No. 38 Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, were aroused from sleep early to-day by a cry of fire when flames were seen bursting from a storehouse in the rear. It was feared that the fire would spread to the hospital and preparations were made to leave.

Patrolman E. J. Conway of the Back Bay police station was walking through a narrow alley at the rear of the hospital when he saw flames bursting through one of the side windows of the building. He ran to the hospital when he found that someone had already seen the fire from the building and was quietly spreading alarm among nurses and attendants. The latter got the patients up.

Conway hurried to Boylston and Arlington streets and sent in an alarm. When the firemen arrived flames were sweeping through the storehouse. The fire lighted up the areaway and for a time it looked as if the flames would spread to other houses in the vicinity. In a half hour the blaze was extinguished and the patients were permitted to return to their beds.

RADICALS OF FRANCE SCORE BIG VICTORY

PARIS, April 25.—Although the complete results of yesterday's general election cannot be definitely known till tonight, the leaders of the radical government this afternoon claimed a sweeping victory and their opponents conceded it.

In many districts, at least a hundred, reballoting must be held to decide the victors. This polling will come on May .8

It was clear to-day that many of the most prominent members and supporters of the government, including the Socialist Premier, Arisitide Briand, were assured of election. The most interesting feature of an otherwise quiet election was the candidacy of a suffragette in each of the twenty districts of Paris. Although the legality of their standing is in doubt, the election officials allowed ballots for them to be counted subject to the future decision.

The prefect of the Seine having ruled that the suffragettes had no standing, they appealed to the council of state, which announced it would decide after the voting.

PLEA FOR CHILD BY DR. MYERS

Are the dogs of Boston receiving better care than the children of the city?

The Rev. Dr. Cortland Myers, pastor of Tremont Temple, says they are. He made the statement in his sermon last evening in speaking about the great white plague.

"The dogs of Boston," said the preacher, "are receiving better treatment than many children. You can put this in the newspapers and I will add a line of emphasis underneath."

Dr. Myers referred specifically to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which he said showed inordinate care for animals, while it neglected human beings. Not until sympathy for suffering humanity was generally entertained would the ravages of the deadly plague of tuberculosis be stayed.

ASK THIRD TERM FOR CUMMINGS

Matthew Cummings, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was indorsed for a third term at a meeting of the Suffolk County Board in Hibernian Hall South Boston. Delegates to attend the national convention at Portland, Ore., in July, were elected as follows: President Michael J. Dullea of Division No. 34 and President John J. Reynolds of Division No. 39.

A committee of five was appointed to procure a grove for the annual field day. The convention took action on the coming State parade and convention in Lowell. County President Richard Dwyer was empowered to make necessary arrangements with the State officials.

TAFT'S DOUBLE IS POLICEMAN

PITTSBURG, April 25.—Contrary to the assertion of the New York artist that there is not another man in the country to be found that bears any sort of resemblance to President Taft, the latter admits that he has a perfect double in the person of Thomas J. Morley, desk sergeant at Central Police Station in this city.

Sergeant Morley has gratefully accepted the invitation to dine with the President on May 1 and attend the ball game with him. The President was so amazed at the remarkable likeness of himself that he immediately wrote to Mr. Morley after meeting him.

"I want to meet Mr. Morley when I again visit Pittsburg."

DIG UP LONG BURIED VERTEBRA OF WHALE

SANDWICH, April 25.—From the famous Scusset marshes, once the favorite fishing and hunting grounds of Grover Cleveland and Joseph Jefferson, the hydraulic dredge General Mackenzie is digging up unusual relics, the latest being a vertebra of a whale. The big dredge is excavating for the Cape Cod canal and is making a channel through the marshes. Roots of trees have been found at a depth of twenty feet under the marsh, which led the men operating the dredge to the conclusion that the roots had only recently been deposited there. As a matter of fact, however, the marshes have not heretofore been disturbed within the memory of anyone in this town, and the roots must have lain there for more than a generation.

SORORITY BARS DIVORCE COLONY

RENO, April 25.—Hereafter no member of the local divorce colony will receive an invitation to attend any social dance given by the sororities of the University of Nevada. This is the ultimatum issued by both the Delta Phi and the Theta Epsilon sororities. The former held a dance and the new rules prevailed to the letter. It is said that a professor who is particularly friendly with one of the "colony" expressed a desire to escort that lady to the dance, but was denied. The Theta Epsilon has planned a dance for next week at which no divorcee will participate. It is understood that the Sigma Alpha Society is contemplating similar action.

"WHEAT QUEEN" GIVES UP SON TO HUSBAND

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—Mrs. Russell McD. Taylor, known as the "Wheat Queen," one of the wealthiest young matrons in Los Angeles and socially prominent, left to-day for Philadelphia with her five-year-old son, Clark, to transfer his custody to his father, Dr. Keel, from whom she was divorced.

It was the desire of the court that the boy should live with his mother six months out of every year, and with the father the other six months. After parting from her son Mrs. Taylor with her husband, treasurer of the Columbia Trust Company, whom she married a few months after her divorce, will embark for Europe. On her return she will receive Clark back and bring him to Los Angeles.

The situation which the court order has brought about is considered an extraordinary one as he will have to be taken a distance of 3,000 miles from one home to the other every six months until he is twenty-one years old.

BOSTON MEN SEEK PARDON FOR WISE

NEW YORK, April 25.—A movement is on foot here among some former Boston friends of Edward Wise, formerly of Boston and once champion pool player of Massachusetts, to secure his release from Sing Sing prison, where he has already spent ten years for the murder of a New York cab driver named Beasley. There has always been doubt as to Wise's guilt. Former District-Attorney John F. McIntyre, who secured his conviction, being among those who have asked for his release, while Warden Frost of Sing Sing prison has repeatedly expressed his belief in Wise's innocence.

CROKER HOMESICK FOR OLD GOTHAM

NEW YORK, April 25.—Unless Richard Croker, the old-time Tammany boss, changes his mind in the next few weeks, he will return to New York before Summer is over to make this city his permanent home.

When Mr. Croker sailed for Ireland he had apparently decided to surrender to the call of Gotham, and imparted the fact to several friends who went to the steamer to bid him farewell.

During his stay in town following his return from Palm Beach he confided to some of his intimates that he had tired of the old country of late and had frequently experienced the pangs of homesickness.

USED FISH LINE TO HANG SELF

SPRINGFIELD, April 25.—The lifeless body of Jacob Biermann, aged fifty-eight years, a well-known Swiss-German resident of this city, was found hanging from a low branch of a maple tree in a much frequented section of Forest Park. Biermann had wound a fish line sixteen times around the branch, which was light and springy like a fish pole, and then slipnoosed it about his neck the same number of times. Biermann had noosed the fish line about two feet from the branch and then sat down, allowing his body to swing clear from the ground.

USED STEAMER FITTINGS FOR FUEL

NEW BEDFORD, April 25.—To the combustible qualities of the fittings of the Portuguese packet steamer Pescador, 115 immigrants, who took passage on the steamer from the Cape de Verde islands, owe their safe arrival here.

After the bunker coal supply gave out, the Pescador's engines were fed on wooden partitions, portions of the immigrants' bunks, much of the below decks fittings and parts of the lower deck structure.

Liverpool Cotton Men To Protect Themselves.

LIVERPOOL.—The leading Liverpool cotton firms to-day decided to pool all cotton arriving against bank acceptances in the interest of all concerned. This, according to the leaders of the movement, will materially assist the firms hard hit by the Knight, Yancey failure, to weather the storm, tiding over the period in which the genuine bills of lading from America are being weeded out from those alleged to be false.

British Military Airship Wreck.

LONDON—British aerial forces suffered a heavy loss to-day, when the military airship, while preparing for a trial trip at Farnborough, was caught by a gale and overturned. The gas bags were split and the frame work smashed. Many of the attendants and aviators narrowly escaped being dragged to death or injury when the big ship was torn loose.

U. S. GUNBOAT TO DEFEND BLUEFIELDS

WASHINGTON, April 25.—That United States sailors and marines are preparing to defend the commercial section of Bluefields, Nicaragua, which is in danger of attack by Madriz government forces is the information which came to the State Department to-day from United States Consul Moffit. Two thousand men of the Madriz army are approaching the city which the Estrada revolutionists are preparing to defend. Commander Gilmer of the United States gunboat Paducah is making preparations for the defence of the city's commercial section.

MAYOR SHEA HOLDS UP "PONY" LICENSES

Mayor William T. Shea of Quincy today denied the request of the License Committee to call a special meeting of the Common Council for Thursday night to pass on pony express licenses. This means that Quincy will be dry following the first of May for possibly two weeks. Action on the licenses will be taken at the next regular meeting, Monday night. The Mayor then has by law the right to take ten days in which to investigate each applicant for a license.

DR. JOHNSON FAILS BARTENDERS' DATE

Although 800 members of the Bartenders' Union were in waiting for the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, whom they had invited to attend their meeting with the idea of convincing him of their respectability, Mr. Johnson did not appear. Instead, he sent a letter explaining that as the bar-and-bottle bill is still in process of legislation his call might be given a political significance. In the letter he expressed a wish to be invited to another meeting, but the invitation was not voted.

FIREMEN HURT BY FALLING TRESTLE

Several firemen were injured and others had narrow escapes early to-day when a railroad trestle in the coal yards of F. Diehl & Co., near the railroad station at Wellesley, collapsed, during a fire that caused $10,000 damage to the company's buildings. The trestle, which is used to carry coal from the cars to the building collapsed with a terrific crash as the firemen were battling to prevent a spread of the blaze to tenement houses in the neighborhood. Many tenants of these houses moved their effects into the streets.

COUNTRY CLUB SURPRISED BY LIQUOR RAID

LOWELL, April 25.—This city is tingling to-day with the sensation caused by the raiding of the Vesper Country Club, a social organization of the most powerful political lights in this city and county, and the seizure of an automobile load of liquors there. The raid was the work of the Law and Order League.

The clubhouse and grounds are on Tyng's Island in the Merrimac River. The island is a part of the town of Tyngsboro, which is a no-license community. It is charged that for years liquor has been sold at the club in violation of the law.

The raid was led by the Rev. Charles H. Merrill of Lowell. With him were Deputy Sheriff Charles A. Evelith, Constable Lawrence, Fred J. Weyand and George Kinsley. They went, under cover of darkness, to the club in an automobile.

Among the members of the Vesper Country Club are:

Assistant District Attorney Charles J. Wier, former District Attorney Fred N. Wier, Harry E. Shaw, keeper of the Lowell jail; Horace P. Beals, former Lowell police commissioner; Arthur C. Abbott, principal assessor of Lowell; Otis Allen, Cyrus Barton, prominent Lowell politician; Horace E. Bacon, run as county ring candidate for registrar of deeds; Walter Coburn, ex-chairman of the Lowell Board of Charities; George C. Dempsey, prominent Lowell politician and liquor dealer; Frank P. Dow, former police commissioner of Lowell; F. E. Dunbar, candidate for congressional nomination against Butler Ames; L. A. Derby, former alderman, Lowell; S. P. Hadley, judge of the Lowell court; J. G. Hill, former chairman Lowell Republican city committee; Charles E. Howe, former mayor of Lowell; G. M. Harrington, prominent Lowell politician; Cyrus W. Irish, principal Lowell High School; Victor F. Jewett, president Lowell Common Council; Judge Frederick Lawton, J. H. Leighton, former president Lowell Common Council; G. F. Martin of the Lowell Board of Health; G. M. Pearson, former postmaster, Lowell; Judge J. J. Pickman, Lowell; S. E. Qua, Lowell alderman; H. R. Rice, former police commissioner, Lowell; A. G. Stiles, Lowell city treasurer; A. G. Swapp, former member Lowell School Board; A. G. Walsh, delegate to the national convention which nominated President Taft.

Among other members associated more or less prominetly with the political world are Charles E. Adams, Leonard Huntress, C. I. Hood and H. A. Varnum.

RESCUED IN LAUNCH BY LIFE-SAVERS

LYNN, April 25.—Captain Hayman of the Nahant Life-Saving Station and his men rescued Edward L. Collins of No. 289 Mountain avenue, Revere, and Miss Eva Childs from the 18-foot launch Mischief, off the ledge of rocks known as "Forty Steps" last evening. The motor had broken down while off Egg Rock and Mr. Collins, who also had Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Poole as pasengers, was forced to anchor. It was foggy and a heavy sea was running.

$60,000,000 DAMAGE DONE BY BLIZZARD

CHICAGO, April 25.—With the worst of the blizzard passed and the temperature hovering within a few degrees of the freezing point, accurate figures of the damage to fruit and crops were reported from the storm-swept sections of the middle West to-day.

The most conservative estimates place the loss at $38,000,000 while others declare the loss will be at least $60,000,0 The temperature of the next few days w decide whether the lower or higher figu will prove correct. If the cold spell d sipates slowly the loss will be nearer $3 000,000.

If it dispels rapidly it may run up clo ly to the higher figure.

Produce commission men are pessimi tic and declare that high prices will be t result of the blizzard. All about Chicag trees were hooded and gardens covered. New Orleans reports that the weather an dry winds have done much damage to the sugar cane and cotton crops.

The tug Zenith and its crew of twelve men arrived safe in the harbor to-day after being tossed about on Lake Michigan for more than twenty-four hours. HOW TO CURE PIMPLES.

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new skin remedy, causes pimples to disappear. The very worst cases are frequently cured in a week, and often in even less time. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin, and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum cures these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is just as efficacious in other skin troubles, such as blackheads, blotches, rash, eruptions, acne, eczema, etc. 10c. and 25c. all druggists.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS NAME IN BOOK OF GOLD

PARIS, April 25.—Theodore Roosevelt to-day became a guest of the municipality. With the honors reserved for kings and emperors, he was received at the Hotel de Ville, and there signed his name in the famous "livre d'or," or book of gold, in which are the autographs of all the monarchs and world famous men who have visited Paris in recent years.

The ceremonies opened with a special solemn session of the City Council, at which addresses were made by men foremost in municipal affairs, including M. Caron, president of the council; M. Deselves, prefect of the Seine; M. Lampue, president of the General Council of the Seine, and M. Lepine, prefect of police.

Then came the luncheon, at which 200 covers were laid. The guests included many political leaders whom the former President had not previously had opportunity to meet. Among those present were members of the cabinet and the presidents of the Senate and of the Chamber of Deputies, as well as many Americans, including Ambassador Bacon.

Mr. Roosevelt's program for this evening included a dinner given by the members of the Rochambeau mission, who went to Washington in 1902 to attend the unveiling of the monument in Lafayette Park, opposite the White House, to Rochambeau. That mission was headed by General Brugere, commander-in-chief of the French Army, who has been much with Mr. Roosevelt since his arrival here. Other members were the Count de Rochambeau; M. Robert de Billy, M. Legrave, who was a commissioner to the St. Louis Exposition; General de Chalander, Lieutenant Colonel Hermile, Captain Poillon de St. Mars, Captain Fasson, Admiral Fournier and M. Jean Guillamin.

In the evening the presidential box at the opera will be occupied by the Roosevelts. Much comment has been made in the Parisian press on the fact that he original bill, "Salome," was changed to "Samson et Delilah" when it became known that the former President would be present.

His address at the Sorbonne—which is selling by the thousands on the streets, where it is hawked at a franc a copy—was made much fuss of by the Socialists in the last hours of the campaign for yesterday's general election.

LARZ ANDERSON WILL BUILD BRIDGE

Although Larz Anderson, a Harvard graduate, will back the scheme to erect a handsome new bridge across the Charles to take the place of the rickety structure that now affords access to the Stadium, in Cambridge, the plans for the work have not been settled. Jonathan Harlow, attorney for Mr. Anderson, said to-day that the reported cost of the structure, $300,000, was much too large. The bridge as first contemplated was a structure without a draw. The Watertown arsenal and the Brighton abattoir objected to this form of bridge, as it would interfere with their waterway privileges.

PEARY AND BARTLETT SAIL TOMORROW

NEW YORK, April 25.—On the Kronprinzessin Cecilie to-morrow will sail Commander Robert E. Peary, who is going to lecture before the Royal Geographical Society and receive honors from the institutions of learning and scientific bodies of Europe. Sharing distinction with him goes Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, commander of the Roosevelt. Commander Peary will be accompanied by Mrs. Peary, Miss Peary and Master Robert Peary.

SENATOR SMOOT'S DAUGHTER TO MARRY

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Senator and Mrs. Smoot of Utah have announced the engagement of their daughter, Chloe, to A. F. Cardon of Logan, Utah. The wedding will take place in the Autumn at Provo, Utah, Senator Smoot's home. Miss Smoot is one of the most attractive girls in the Senatorial set.

WATSON-MACEY.

Dr. Carl L. Watson and Miss Eva Bartlett Macey will be married to-night at their future home, No. 166 Huntington avenue. The ceremony which will be performed by the Rev. George C. Hamilton, pastor of the Universalist Church of Everett, at 7:30 o'clock, will be followed by a reception.

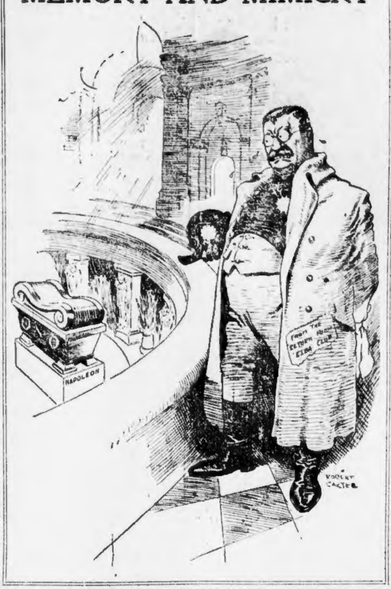
Trade E&W Mark

In the yearly report recently made to the Linen Merchants' Association of Belfast, Ireland, it is stated that the United States have taken more linen goods than all the other export markets combined.

We think it a conservative statement when we say we put the knife in more linen than all other Troy manufacturers combined twice over and that when we claim our Collars and Shirts are Troy's Best Product the claim is a just one.

EARL & WILSON.

MEMORY AND MIMICRY



O'BRIEN TO BE ARRESTED IN DEATH CASE

BROCKTON, April 25.—Police Inspector James F. Morey of Brockton left on the 10:30 train to-day with a warrant for the arrest of Joe O'Brien, the Cambridge boxer, on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Max Landy of Roslindale, who died Saturday morning following a bout with O'Brien before the Union A. C. Friday night.

Brockton fighters say that the result of Friday's bout at the Union A. C. will not affect the boxing game in this city, as the death of Landy cannot be regarded other than one of those regrettable accidents liable to occur in any strenuous athletic sport.

There is a boxing exhibition scheduled for to-night before the Brockton Young Men's Athletic Club in Canton Hall. The main bout on the card is Joe Walcott vs. Bill McKinnon of Roxbury for twelve rounds.

The police are taking no action against to-night's event and a big attendance is expected.

BANK TRUSTEES TO GIVE GUARANTY FUND

SOUTHBRIDGE, April 25.—"The trustees of the Southbridge Savings Bank will furnish a guarantee fund acceptable to the bank commissioner and the Attorney-General if the bank resumes business," said President Calvin D. Paige of the institution to-day. This would mean a sum of not less than $200,000 which the trustees would have to contribute. It was the belief of Mr. Paige that the best thing for the depositors was the 85 per cent. proposition. Nothing definite can be decided upon regarding the guarantee fund until the legislative committee reports to the Legislature.

IMMORAL PLAYS ON WOMEN'S BLACKLIST

CHICAGO, April 25.—Delegates from fifty Chicago clubs and hundreds of outside cities met at the Art Institute to-day to perfect the organization of the Drama League of America. According to the plan outlined, the weekly Stage Censor, a bulletin containing the women's diagnosis of the stage, will be sent to every clubwoman in the country, telling her what shows to shun as detrimental to her moral welfare. Mrs. A. Starr Best, vice-president of the Drama Club of Evanston, is mentioned as a candidate for the presidency of the new league.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S PASTOR RESIGNS

NEW YORK, April 25.—John D. Rockefeller attended services at the First Baptist Church at Tarrytown yesterday for the first time since last Fall. The church was supplied by a new minister and during the service the clerk read the resignation of the pastor, the Rev. Raymond F. Ingersoll, who is now in the Catskills for his health. Mr. Rockefeller was much surprised.

GIRL ARTIST DEAD IN NAPLES; DEEP MYSTERY

NEW YORK, April 25.—Working on the mysterious death of Miss Estelle Reid of New York in Naples, the police of that city, says a cablegram, to-day declared that while there were some indications of suicide they are chiefly occupied with running down any possible murder clews. Since her scantily clad body was found on the beach after Miss Reid had been dead three days her movements have been carefully traced but little to clear the mystery has been brought to light.

Miss Reid, who was an artist, spent some time recently in Lindau, Germany, Turin, Milan, Pisa and Siena. From the latter place she went to Naples on April 8, registering at the Hotel Cartello, whose proprietor identified her body.

The authorities have closely questioned the guests at the hotel, many of whom are Americans. From them they learned that Miss Reid was considered eccentric, paying little heed to anyone and spending much time in brooding. Examination of the letters found in her baggage have thrown no light on the tragedy. Efforts have been made by the police to get into communication with the persons in Chicago, St. Louis and Canada who wrote them.

Miss Reed was independently wealthy. Her father, a prominent resident of Peekskill, died several years ago. In 1907 her sister, Ida Chester Reid, married John Blair, an actor, who is now in Chicago in "The Melting Pot" company. Miss Ida Reid met Blair when she was a guest of Mrs. Mason Davidge, daughter of the late Bishop Potter at Cornish, N. H.

HUNDRED NEW WITNESSES FOR "DAKOTA DAN"

Dakota Dan Russell has found between seventy-five and a hundred new witnesses who will testify that he is the rightful claimant to half of the Russell fortune in Melrose, it was asserted to-day by his counsel, Senator Leslie A. Simpson, who has just completed his appeal for a new trial by a Supreme Court jury.

"I do not care to give an idea of the character of the new testimony," said Senator Simpson, "but I will say that we will now be able to account for every day of Dan's time from the time he left home up to the present and show conclusively that he is not Jim Rusean."

The appeal will be filed either to-day or to-morrow. It was completed by Senator Simpson, who with N. L. Sheldon and Dakota Dan went over it last evening at the hotel where the claimant is resting in the suburbs of the city.

Detectives Guard Home.

Senator Simpson said that the friends of the Dakota claimant need not think that the fight had been abandoned, because it would be kept up until the real Dan came into his own.

Meanwhile, "Fresno Dan," accepted as the real Daniel Blake Russell is living at the old Russell mansion at Melrose with William C. Russell, his brother. The house is closely guarded by detectives.

The reunited brothers have become boon companions. When the Russell brothers were boys "Dannie" was an ardent poultry fancier, while "Willie" was even more interested in horticulture. They have talked over their old hobbies and plan to ride them this spring and summer, in case they don't decide to go abroad for rest and recreation.

Dakota Dan Not Worried.

Callers say that "Brother Dan" is poring over catalogues advertising the points of fancy breeds of poultry.

"Brother Willie" is cramming on Luther Burbank literature.

"Dakota Dan," has selected a house in Melrose and is going to take up his abode there soon.

He said "Dan" Collamore, who has acted as his agent in Melrose since he appeared in Boston a year ago and began his fight for a fortune, picked out the house for him and that it is on Clinton street. There is no "Clinton street" in the official list of Melrose thoroughfares.

"I see by the papers that William C. Russell has given this Fresno fellow half of the Russell fortune," said "Dakota Dan." "That doesn't worry me. If he has, it is his half he gave away, and what he has left is my half, so when I get out and start my appeal I'll get my half and he won't have anything."

CARDINAL PRAISES WORKING WOMEN

BALTIMORE, Md., April 25.—"I have ten times more respect for the woman who goes out and earns her living, toils for herself and family and becomes a good housekeeper than for the idle and gossiping society woman who passes away her precious moments in doing nothing."

Cardinal Gibbons spoke thus in the sermon at the confirmation exercises at St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

"Above all, my boys and girls, be industrious," continued the cardinal. "It is an honorable thing to work, and honorable and industrious work is what has made this great nation. Never be afraid to work, and always be ever ready to do your share, and when the time comes. Men alone should not be industrious, and the working woman always commands and should demand much more respect than the idle woman."

TORPEDO BOAT BURGER TESTED AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., April 25.—The Burger sub-surface torpedo boat, one of the latest experiments in naval construction, began its official trial to-day before Admiral Thomas, Commanders W. S. Smith, Snowden and C. F. Hughes, and Naval Constructor Robert Stocker. The trials consist of a standardizing run of one mile, a run of from one to twelve hours in the open sea, an endurance run, maneouvring trials, a test of weapons and the water-tight tests.

NEW POISON STORY AT HYDE HEARING

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 25.—While a woman's wit was set against the skillful efforts of an attorney to break her story down, as Miss Anna Houlihan, a nurse, was further cross-examined to-day at the trial of Dr. B. Clarke Hyde, accused of the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, it became known that "Young Tom" Swope, the defendant's brother-in-law, will give sensational testimony. He will, it is known, testify to finding a capsule of cyanide of potassium—one of the most deadly drugs known—which Dr. Hyde attempted to destroy. When court opened Dr. Hyde appeared cheerful and refreshed after a day's rest from the court room.

SAWYER ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY

District Attorney John J. Higgins to-day appointed Henry C. Sawyer of Woburn as second assistant district attorney of Middlesex County. Mr. Sawyer fills the place made vacant by the death of Horace M. Hardy of Arlington several weeks ago. Mr. Sawyer is a member of the law firm of Sawyer, Hardy, Stone & Wiles of No. 517 Exchange Building, Boston.

HOT WAVE SWEEPS OVER NEWFOUNDLAND

ST. JOHNS, N. F., April 25.—Record-breaking temperatures have accompanied a hot wave that has been experienced on the west coast of Newfoundland. At points where the usual temperature at this season of the year would be below freezing, the thermometers have registered as high as 85 degrees in the shade.

GEORGE A. DOYLE.

ROXBURY BOY LONG MISSING

Efforts to find George A. Doyle, the fourteen-year-old Roxbury boy who disappeared from his home at No. 14 Sarsfield street, Roxbury, on April 5, thus far have been fruitless. The parents of the lad have appealed to the police and have been searching night and day for him.

George Hanlon, seventeen years old, of No. 141 Cabot street, who has been friendly with the Doyle boy, is also missing, and it is believed the two are together. Young Doyle attended the Sherwin Grammar School.

When he went away Doyle wore a mixed brown suit, knee pants, blue cap, white bow tie, black shoes and stockings. He is tall and of very slight build. He is of medium complexion and has blue eyes.

DR. BROWN QUITS; CHILDREN GRIEVE

There is grief among the children who are convalescing at the City Hospital from long sieges of illness, for Dr. W. J. Brown—"nice Dr. Brown" they call him—has decided to resign after three years as house officer and head of the south department.

He became very popular with the children who are in isolation for so many weeks, and there is woe in the wards to-day that he is no longer to make his cheery rounds, laughing and joking and brightening the long days.

WELLESLEY GIRLS PUT BLOOMERS AWAY, WEAR TROUSERS ON STAGE

WELLESLEY, April 25.—Sniff, sniff! There's an odor of moth balls at Wellesley College. It isn't sealskin, it isn't squirrel, that is being packed away—it's bloomers. Gleefully Wellesley girls are shoving these necessities into their trunk trays, because the bloomer trust is broken.

Heretofore no girl could appear before the Wellesley footlights in full male attire. She could don a clawhammer coat and a biled shirt, but below her trim two-button waistcoat she had to wear bloomers. She didn't like it, even if she could wear silk hose and high-heeled slippers. Since the manifesto, issued by the committee appointed by the Barnswallows, the big college social club, and approved by the faculty, the would-be hero has taken some fun in roaring into the mirror: "Odds death, I'll have his blood!"

Makes Audience Giggle.

"I can put real ginger into my part now," smiled the villain chosen for the senior dramatics. Mannishly she squared her shoulders under her wide Dutch collar. "You can't imagine how ridiculous it was under the old rule. Last year I had to arrest a man. It was the climax of the play. You could just hear the freshmen in the front row holding their breath. I had on a long coat when I grappled with the bank robber.

"'By whose authority do you lay hand on me?' she hissed. 'The authority of the law!' I bellowed. I flung open my coat, displaying my policeman's badge, my blue coat with the brass buttons. It had two pillows, by the way, between me and it, and below bloomers! Why, I looked like a comic supplement. The audience didn't applaud, it just giggled.

"My roommate had to ask a girl once to sit on 'his' knee. You just picture a nice man in full evening dress down to his waist and the rest of him in bloomers. It makes you think of a centaur or a mermaid.

Dress Rules Always Up.

"Seriously, I can't see why a girl shouldn't wear man's clothes in a play. Bloomers are a heap worse. Why, they're just like ballet skirts. It makes you feel like comedy down to your belt and vaudeville the rest of the way. You wouldn't expect Sarah Bernhardt to wear skirts in 'L'Aiglon,' would you? Well, I don't see why a poor little amateur should be expected to do such a ridiculous thing."

For six years Wellesley has been fermenting over the dramatic regulation. Before that time they were allowed "real men." Since that time there have been difficulties. Question, for instance. When is a bloomer not a bloomer? Answer, When it doesn't bloom enough. There are bloomers and bloomers. A committee comprised of members of the faculty who censor every dress rehearsal, have passed judgment upon this delicate matter.

To Obviate Bloomers.

The class of 1906 dramatized "Lady Rose's Daughter," laying the scene in colonial times to obviate bloomer difficulty. Knickerbockers are a species of bloomer. The hero and all his male companions appeared in automobile togs in another play. From act one to the final curtain the scene was the open road, because they couldn't get away without going into bloomers. Colonial plays have been a staple diet.

There are at Wellesley more organizations that give yearly dramatic performances than at any other woman's college. The Shakespeare Society, whose home is a replica of the poet's birthplace, each June presents a Shakespeare play. A classical society gives a Greek play. Masques are presented by two literary societies. In addition to this are billed plays by each of the four classes, and a senior play at commencement.

Hence the present order for moth balls is tremendous.

13 INJURED IN TEXAS RIOTS

COLEMAN, Tex., April 25.—One white man is believed to be dying, and twelve negroes are seriously injured as the result of race riots that waged for twenty-four hours. The war subsided early to-day after the 200 men, women and children of Coleman's negro quarter had been driven from town.

The negroes, save for a few individuals, made no resistance, and to this is attributed the comparatively small number of casualties.

The trouble started with a fight between a negro lad and two white boys.

Armed with clubs and missiles, the whites gathered about the section given over to the negroes and began an attack. Within a few minutes the crowd had increased to more than one thousand. Every negro found was beaten, and the cabins of the blacks were wrecked with brickbats and clubs.

TRINITY CHURCH ASSETS $14,000,000

NEW YORK, April 25.—The second annual financial statement of Trinity Church corporation made public shows that the oldest parish in the city is worth $362,344 more than it was a year ago.

The productive property of the corporation is given as $13,693,500. The value of the churches, burying grounds, schools and playgrounds on Long Island is not given. The total assets are $14,431,677.

CHURCH BREAKS WITH MONACO

ROME, Aug. 25.—The break between Pope Pius X and the Prince of Monaco was made complete to-day when the ruler of Monte Carlo reached Rome. The Monaco Minister to the Vatican, Count Wagner, was notified that he was no longer persona grata. This lead to the definite severance of all relations between Monaco and the church. Count Wagner will leave at once.

The Prince was received with royal honors by the Quirinal. King Victor Emmanuel paid him a formal visit.

MGR. SPLAINE WARNS CATHOLICS AGAINST PERILS OF SOCIALISM

Speaking at the third of a series of lectures, explaining the Catholic church view of Socialism, Mgr. M. J. Splaine of the Cathedral warned Catholic workingmen not to join the ranks of a school of thought in which "the very principles for which Christ died would be ignored."

"Do not join the ranks of those who require the overthrow of our Christian civilization that they may start out in their new and perilous venture," he declared.

Mgr. Splaine said that the true school of thought in regard to man must be that system which considers him both as an individual and a member of society, respects his rights as to both and safeguards him on the one hand and strengthens society on the other.

He said in part:

"There is one school of thought which considers man merely as an individual in himself, without any consideration of the individual as a member of society. This extreme view, which places the individual above all organized society and which bears for its motto, "Neither God nor Master," would abolish all authority, law and order, even through acts of the greatest violence, if necessary. Happily, this extreme school has few followers, as the fallacy of its system is so patent to all honest minds that it gathers comparatively few men under its standard.

"There is a second school of thought that has rushed to the other extreme and, neglecting to consider the rights of the individual in himself, considers him only in his social relations to his fellowmen and subjects all his individual freedom, independence, initiative and natural ability to the arbitrary command of a new form of society. Just as the first school of thought has rushed to one extreme to make the individual tyrannize over society, so this second school has rushed to the other extreme and makes society tyrannize over the individual.

Common Good of All.

"The true school of thought in regard to man must be that system which considers man not merely as the individual, but also as a member of society; that respects his rights as an individual, but, at the same time, compels him to perform his duty in regard to his fellowmen; that safeguards his freedom and independence on the one hand and that strengthens society on the other, so the authority of society may be strong enough to obtain that for which it was founded, namely, the common good of all, and at the same time to preserve and protect the rights of each individual citizen in regard to his fellowmen.

"The second school of thought, which rushes to the extreme of making society tyrannize over the individual has won a considerable following because of the hopes of betterment that it holds out to those whose conditions are unhappy. This school of thought succeeds in gathering those who are dissatisfied with their present conditions because of the promises it makes of betterment and advancement; but schools of thought, as well as individuals, are not to be judged merely by the promises they hold out.

"This extreme school of thought, which requires the subjection of the individual to society, despairs of ever being able to fulfil its promise of betterment until this present order under which we live is abolished. They despair of ever being able to better the laboring classes unless society as at present constituted be overthrown.

What Overthrow Means.

"The overthrow of the present order, then, is the first demand of those who despair to remedy conditions under our present system. In plain language, the overthrow of the present order means the overthrow of Christian civilization, with all that Christian civilization implies.

"The projectors of a new form of society must realize that under their contemplated system they are not going to deal with a new brand of human nature. The human beings that would make up their society would be exactly the same race of men, with all the varieties of dispositions, temperaments, limitations, abilities, hopes and weaknesses that men possess to-day.

"It is not good laws that make men better, but it is the living up to good laws that brings the blessing of peace and contentment to all. Human nature as we know it, not in the abstract, but in the concrete experience of every human heart, needs high ideals; needs the sanction of laws; needs the idea of reward for its virtues, needs the idea of punishment for its vices; needs the example and encouragement of its companions; needs its own eternal strivings against its downward tendencies; needs the consolation of religion, and needs the grace of God himself to make it truly happy.

"Good laws then alone cannot make men happy unless the individual lives up to the full measure of those laws, and a system that does not take God into its consideration, but that compasses man's whole life and destiny merely in the enjoyment of an equal distribution of wealth here, will never be able to spur men on to the observance of its laws.

"What we need is not necessarily the enactment of more laws, but the observance by all of the good laws now in existence. What we need now is not a new form of society, but a living up honestly to the principles of the present society, which has done so much for civilization.

"Any other system that is based on the materialistic conception of the origin and final destiny of man; that centres all his hopes merely on the enjoyment of an equal distribution of the goods of this world and utterly ignores the fact that this life is merely a time of probation to fit man for eternal life with God; ignores the fact that we shall be judged not by our riches, but by how we have used them; ignores the fact that the goods of this world are not an end in themselves to be desired, but merely the means to attain unto our end, can never succeed in binding men harmoniously under any new form of society or organization.

"What power human or divine can hold men in check if this new school of extreme thought once educates the masses to the false belief that there is no hope of just retribution beyond the grave? What hope is there of warding off direct chaos from society of men are educated falsely to believe that the origin and destiny of man are merely material and bound up with and die out with the things of this world?

Each Man Has the Remedy.

"The remedy lies at our very doors, is locked up in the breast of every individual and that remedy is for every individual, rich and poor, capitalist or laborer, of high or low conditions, to raise his own standard of life and conduct toward his fellow men and not to seek new forms of society in which to repeat the mistakes of the present system, but conscientiously to live up to the full observance of all the good laws and to follow in the footsteps of our forefathers.

"Catholic workingmen, do not despair that conditions cannot be righted and bettered under our present form of society. Do not join the ranks of those who require the overthrow of our Christian civilization that they may start out in their new and perilous venture.

"Conscious of her lofty mission to keep alive the Christian civilization intrusted to her keeping, the Catholic church must speak and warn her children that the principles that are behind the contemplated form of society, though avowedly merely economic, are radically set against the moral and religious principles of Christian civilization; in fact, the founders of the new order proclaim openly that the Christian religion itself is not divine in its origin nor in its destiny, but the mere result of economic conditions."

GYPSY MOTH MUCH WORRIED

The Massachusetts gypsy moth is wondering to-day what he is going to do about this "sequence of parasites," which is being turned loose against him by the State bug experts.

The scheme of the "sequence of parasites," as explained in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN of yesterday, is to unleash a succession of bugs which attack the gypsy moth at every stage, from the egg up. The parasites are imported. Each has a name so long that no ordinary visiting card will hold it. The names alone are enough to scare a gypsy moth to death.

Reports to-day from the gypsy moth camps in Middlesex Fells and other moth-infested areas are that the moths are thinking of giving up the contest. To quote one of the leading moths:

"There's a parasitic jinx on us moths. What chance have we got against anastatus bifasciatus, schedius kuvanae, glyptapanteles fulvipes, blepharipa scutellata and such bug heavy-weights."

CONVICTED SLAYER HAPPY IN JAIL CELL

NEW YORK, April 25.—Albert Wolter, convicted of the murder of Ruth Wheeler, joined vigorously with his fellow-prisoners of the Tombs in singing hymns. No one called to see him, but he was cheerful all day and ate three hearty meals. The warden said his appetite improved all the time. He seems not to dread facing sentence next Wednesday. A number of newspaper men sent word to Wolter, requesting an interview, but, through a keeper, he answered that he wanted to be left alone.

LABOR

Joseph Lee of the Boston School Committee spoke in favor of industrial education in the public schools at a special meeting of the Central Labor Union in Wells Memorial Hall. Dennis D. Driscoll, speaking for the unions, was of the opinion that a labor man should be on the School Board, while Michael Birmingham opposed all industrial education before the age of fourteen.

By unanimous vote of its 1,800 members the Bartenders Union to-day goes on record as favoring a Labor Day parade, with the promise that every man among them will be in line.

Frank M. Flanagan is the only officer running for re-election without opposition in Boston Typographical Union No. 13. President J. J. Chase is opposed by ex-President David X. Coughlan, S. J. McBride, Charles Tillman and Thomas M. Nolan. Secretary Thomas P. Curtin will be opposed by Joseph J. Dallas. For the vice-presidency, John McLoughlin, Charles Whiting, John Conway, John Kopp, Charles Foster, James O'Connor, Louis E. Hyde, Herbert W. Cooke and S. J. O'Connor have been nominated.

Injunction proceedings have been instituted against the men alleged to be responsible for the strike now on at a big wool warehouse under course of construction on Summer street, South Boston, the application for the writ being made by the L. P. Soule & Sons Co.

Rank discrimination is being practiced against some of the members of the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Department Teamsters' Union No. 149, the officers of the organization assert, in that a number of the men entitled to "back pay" for injuries received while at work have not been given the money.

Sixty-two shops doing high class work for Back Bay people in this city are paying their employes "starvation wages," according to a report made to the officers of Boston Central Labor Union by Mrs. Charlotte Smith.

Uniform wage scales for wood, wire and metal lathers doing work in all Massachusetts cities are under consideration by the officers of the men's unions to-day. The Boston local has presented the employers of this city with a new wage scale calling for $4.40 a day, to become operative May 1.

MAYOR'S SONG THROWN INTO THE DISCARD

DIED.
In this city, April 25, of cold feet,
"SWEET ADELINE,"
Favorite melody of Mayor Fitzgerald.
No Flowers.

"Sweet Adeline" is dead. She is the vocal discard. Never again will Mayor Fitzgerald lift up his honeyed voice in the melodious strains of that seductive campaign song.

Why not? Because the Mayor fears lest he be taken merely for a singer of songs and not for a serious "sure 'nuff'" Mayor, if he keeps on warbling this famous song. To quote His Honor:

"I am afraid if I keep on telling stories and singing that song I will meet the fate of 'Sunset' Cox, who told so many funny stories that, when he arose in Congress to speak seriously, he was laughed down. Nobody would take him seriously."

Mayor Fitzgerald has sung "Sweet Adeline" in every ward in Boston and even outside. He sung it abroad and on his recent Havana trip. He has yodled it from the political platform, at banquets and at small and cozy gatherings of personal friends. He can sing it without the music, backwards, sideways, in his sleep and on the bridge at midnight. He knows the song better than the man who wrote it.

But never no more for "Sweet Adeline." The Mayor does not wish to be listed in the new census as a song-sheet artist. For him, hereafter, "Sweet Adeline" will be but a fond memory. Having served her purpose well, "Sweet Adeline" gets the Fitzgerald hook. Requiescat in pace, hic jacet, and then some for "Sweet Adeline."

It isn't what you pay for advertising; it's what advertising pays you. Advertising that pays is the only cheap advertising; advertising that doesn't pay is dear at any price. Advertising in the AMERICAN pays best, therefore it is the cheapest.

NEW EPOCH FOR IRELAND'S SONS

Boston College Hall was crowded when the various branches in Boston of the Irish National Foresters united in a meeting held in support of the fund for building the O'Connell memorial and Irish hall of fame in the new Boston College.

High Chief Ranger Edmund B. Russell of Somerville presided. There were with him on the stage the members of Unity branch of Charlestown in full uniform, General Organizer Charles McCarthy, Hon. Joseph H. O'Neil, former Representative John J. Douglas of East Boston and the Rev. James I. Maguire, S. J., of Boston College.

Father Maguire declared that it is his belief the Irish race is at last entering upon what promises to be a most momentous epoch. If Irishmen throughout the world were united and worked together for the common good there is no power on earth to retard the progress which Ireland and her people are now working at home and abroad.

Fr. Maguire described the plan and scope of the Irish building as part of the new college. Within its walls will be perpetuated the names and deeds of Ireland's noted men and women. Records and memorials will be preserved of Ireland's past as a nursery of the arts and sciences, while the O'Connell memorial would be the grandest monument yet erected to the memory of O'Connell, the great emancipator.

Father Maguire said the building will cost $350,000.

CHAUFFEUR WINS BRIDE IN ALPS

SWAMPSCOTT, April 25.—A meeting between a Greater Boston chauffeur and an English girl in the Swiss Alps in 1908 resulted in a wedding in Crowborough, Sussex, England, where Alanson I. Questrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Questrom, of No. 50 New Ocean street, Swampscott, and Miss Amy Grace Glover were married last week. The bride was travelling companion for an English woman of title. Mr. and Mrs. Questrom will reside in Waltham.

WRESTLER'S NECK BROKEN; IS DYING

WOMAN WHO SAYS MAN IN LOVE SUIT IS HER HUSBAND

MINNIE FRENCH

LOVE SUIT MAY PROVE BOSTON MAN BIGAMIST

Mrs. Minnie McEchron French of No. 168 Huntington avenue is anxiously awaiting to-day new developments from Hartford, Ct., where her husband, Walter A. French, formerly of Boston, now of Redbank, N. J., has a suit for $25,000 pending against Dr. Charles E. Froelich of Hartford for alleged alienations of the affections of Mrs. Sadie E. Thayer French.

Mrs. Minnie McEchron French of this city, according to a statement she made Saturday night, is the legal wife of French. She confirms an assertion made in Hartford by Dr. Froelich's counsel that she was married to French in Boston thirteen years ago and that she was never divorced from him.

This statement puts French in the light of being illegally wedded to Mrs. Sadie E. Thayer French, whose alienated affections are the basis of French's suit against Dr. Froelich.

Mrs. French of Boston, or wife No. 1, is wondering if counsel for Dr. Froelich will try to have her before the Hartford courts to upset the status of the French-Thayer marriage. Wife No. 1 has no desire to go to Hartford on such an errand. She shrinks from the notoriety and she says she has only pity for Wife No. 2.

Wife No. 1 said to-day:

"I shall not go to Hartford to appear against my husband unless made to do so in some way I cannot see now.

"I have no rancor in my heart against my husband. I have not seen him for ten years. My ten-year-old son George thinks his father is dead. I have prayed that he might never know he had a father living. This is the part of the case that pains me most.

"Mr. French's people are among the best in Boston. They have been very good to me. It would be rank ingratitude on my part to tell who they are at this time or mix them up in any way in this case.

"Several times I have thought of divorce. Then the notoriety of it all and what it would mean to my boy have oppressed me, and I have let it go. Now the inevitable has happened. I wish no one harm, and am sorry for Miss Thayer most of all.

"Her position is unenviable. I cannot see how the case is coming out at present, but, of course, my husband has no claim on Miss Thayer and has none on Dr. Froelich, as far as I can see. It seems a pretty foolish matter in any light."

10 PER CENT. DEMAND BY B. & M. WORKERS

The wage committees of Boston & Maine Freight Clerks' Assembly No. 1793, and Boston & Maine freight Handlers' Assembly No. 5572 in a joint conference decided to decline to accept less than a 10 per cent. increase in wages.

The clerks seek an increase from $2.25 to $2.50 a day, while the freight handlers ask an increase from $2 to $2.25 a day.

"THE SPENDTHRIFT"

How a Woman Bankrupts Her Husband by Her Extravagance

By John A. Moroso

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

SYNOPSIS

FRANCES WARD, the wife of Richard Ward, broker and member of the New York Stock Exchange, is a spoiled, extravagant woman, who has been used to having her own way most of her life.

The Wards make their home in a high-class apartment house close to Central Park and a short distance from Fifth avenue. The apartment they occupy is a richly furnished one, and they have three or four servants to care for it. Two servants would be plenty to do the work, but Mrs. Ward insists that she must have the additional ones.

Ward is working in the library at night when she comes in. She tells him she has decided that what they need is a house on Riverside Drive, and begins working on her husband to persuade him to buy one there. She has heard of a bargain that can be secured for $60,000, and nothing will do her but that her husband must purchase it.

Ward tries to show her that he needs the money for other purposes, that he is in need of ready cash to carry on his business and that the purchase of the house may spell his financial ruin, but she is deaf to all his reasoning, and continues to plead for the house she has set her heart on.

When he tells her that she cannot have the house, she tells him he does not love her or he would give her what she wants. When he assures her of his love, she exclaims triumphantly that the house will be hers. Then he, against his better judgment, tells her he will buy it.

The next afternoon, as Ward is leaving his office, Philip Cartwright, lawyer, and Dick Ward's chum when the two of them were getting their start in the business and professional world of New York, comes to Ward's office and insists that the two of them shall take dinner down town and revisit their old haunts.

Cartwright tells Ward that he has bought the house next to the one in which they had their apartment, when things with them were such that they could afford one, and that he still enjoyed living in Washington square just for the sake of old times, and because it was out of the beaten path of society's intrusions.

He notices Ward's gloom, and invites him to dine in the old haunts where they spent the days when they were clerks. Ward's wife calls on the phone as he is leaving the office, and despite his unwillingness cajoles him into buying the $60,000 house on the Drive. He is forced to give a note and a mortgage of $30,000 to run for five years. Cartwright agrees to indorse the note.

CHAPTER III.

FOR the first time in the last half of his married existence of ten years Dick Ward was cleared of many worries. For a few hours he had gone back to the sweet old life of simple pleasures.

How he had enjoyed the recounting of old stories of what seemed hardship in the early days when he and Phil came to New York fresh from college, ready to set afire the nearest stream of water.

Phil told his old, old stories of his tribulations as a lawyer's clerk and he recited his of the hard times on a three-legged stool as a broker's clerk. The fun of little bites to eat in the dingy rooms, the occasional "sprees," when they went to the theatre or "dressed up" and visited some of the rich people their parents and friends knew, and who liked them because they were young and full of ambition and fun.

Oh, it was glorious. It was being young again, and there were no notes to look out for on the next day, no menace of an erratic market with sudden slumps or boosts in prices. Everything was serene and sweet, and the landlady liked them and would have given them credit until she herself was dispossessed.

She was still living, but infirm, a younger woman having taken charge of the same lodging house. They went to see her, and she was delighted over their courtesy and remembrance. She told them that she had saved her money; that there was nothing she wanted that she could not have. Her pleasures were simple, books and short walks on sunny days, a talk with a crony and the delight of being remembered by the younger ones to whom she had tried to be kind.

Old-Time Fellowship

Ward had an evening full of charm, and then Phil had him in his famous apartment next to the old lady's lodging house. The old marble mantelpiece was just as fine as he had described it. The fire warmed him, and the gusty oak logs filled the room with a delightful incense of sacred memories of home. They tippled ever so lightly, for both were temperate, and yet the hot toddy warmed the cockles of their hearts and brought them nearer to the things that were.

Ward went away laughing, forgetting that he was no longer a broker's clerk, and taking the subway at Astor place to Fifty-ninth street, so that he might walk eastward and to his apartment in the clean air which sweeps from the park.

He was whistling as he entered his apartment house, stepped in the elevator and was shot upward to his cozy nest.

His butler was surprised at the gayety of his master as he swung the door open. Still whistling a tune of the old days, Dick Ward swung up the corridor of his apartment to the reception room. He went to his library room, his refuge at home, tossed his felt hat upon a chair and threw off his top coat.

He threw back the lid of a cigarette box made of silver and handsomely wrought—a gift from Frances. The cigarette he picked up dropped from his fingers.

An unpleasant laugh sounded on his ears. The voice of a man made the sound.

He pressed a pearl button, and the butler stepped to the threshold of the room.

"Er—ah—ask Mrs. Ward to come here, please," he instructed the butler.

"Yes, sir."

In a moment the butler was back.

Ward had the cigarette between his lips and was striking a match, gazi vacantly before him.

"Mrs. Ward says, sir," announced t butler, "to ask you please to come to t reception room, as she has a guest."

"Very well," said Ward shortly.

He drew the smoke deep into his lung and exhaled it through his nostrils. Th boyishness that had come to him so su denly and that had given him so muc pleasure disappeared. He was an old a worried man once more. He threw t cigarette upon the hearth and went the reception room.

"Why, hello, Ward," was the greeti from his wife's guest, as he rose from divan beside Frances. "Thought I'd b kill time for Mrs. Ward until you got It isn't very late, is it?"

"He Got the Days Mixed"

"Not very," replied Ward, standing aw wardly in the centre of the room. "Y must pardon me, my dear," to his wif "I did not know that you had change your receiving day."

"I have not," Frances replied, advan ing toward him. "Mr. Thorne was mi taken. You see, he has not called in s long that he got his days mixed."

"I've just returned from abro y'know," said Thorne, with a silly lau that expressed fully his boredom.

"Really, it's midnight," he went o glancing at his watch. "Mrs. Ward is very entertaining, y'know, old man, th the time just flew. I dropped in for a fe moments only, as I had a bridge engag ment at the club. Now I may not b able to get a hand."

"I am very sorry, Mr. Thorne," Franc interjected. "Why didn't you tell m about the game and I should have sen you away."

CANADA TRADE MOVE WINNING IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The joint resolution that has for its object the securing of closer commercial and greater free trade relations between the United States and Canada will be favorably reported by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Representative Butler Ames of Massachusetts, author of the joint resolution, says he feels confident that it will pass the House without provoking serious opposition or opening up the tariff question. The House, Representative Ames explains, is merely to express an opinion that there should be closer commercial and greater freedom of trade relations with Canada and that a copy of the joint resolution be forwarded to the President.

Such action on the part of Congress, Mr. Ames says, would no doubt, in the light of recent events, be construed by the President as an invitation to neogtiate with Canada for a new commercial treaty that would result in an extension of trade with that country.

The joint resolution was introduced March 31, but the Ways and Means Committee has taken no action on it. Chairman Payne is apprehensive that it might prove to be the entering wedge for a tariff debate, but Mr. Ames, who has been making a canvass of the House, asserts there is no danger of such debate, and he has secured the signatures of nearly 100 Republicans calling upon the Ways and Means Committee to report the joint resolution to the House without further delay.

GIRLS VIE ON HAIR DRESSING

Roxbury girls are getting their tresses in trim for the contest at the ball of the Longworth Club in Intercolonial Hall to-morrow night to decide which girl has "the most appropriate hair dress."

The winner is to receive a gold medal. The judges will not be women, either. The girls have to consider in dressing their hair what style will appeal to the masculine taste.

Miss Alice Warrenton of Boston and Miss Lillian Smith of Roxbury are mentioned as promising candidates. But other girls noted for the wealth and beauty of their locks, will give these two a sharp contest.

Some of the styles scheduled to be in the contest include the Roxbury rat, the Jamaica Plain puff, the Boston bun, the Roosevelt roll, the Chantecler cascade and the Wollaston wave.

TOBACCO COMPANY TO LOSE MILLIONS

On July 1 will become operative the new tax revenue advance on tobacco at two cents per pound. The American Tobacco Company announces that there will be no change in weight, size or price of its leading brands of plug and twist tobacco. This means, it is declared, that the new tax will not affect the consumer's pocket nor the dealer, but will involve a direct loss to the American Tobacco Company of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 a year. There will be no demoralization of trade, such as usually precedes announcement of increase of custom or internal revenue tax.

MACHINERY WORKER CAUGHT IN WHEELS

LYNN, April 25.—Harry R. Moody, a steamfitter employed by a Providence firm, nearly lost his life to-day while at work installing a sprinkler system in the factory of the Benz Leather Company. His clothing caught in some wheels, he was drawn into the shafting and was wedged between two wheels just as the machinery was stopped. His body was badly bruised. Moody had been boarding at No. 455 Washington street.

HERD OF FAT MEN TO EAT AT BANQUET

The rotund members of the New England Fat Men's Club will gather at the Revere House next Friday night to eat and plan for the grand convention of the club in Boston next September.

Attendance promises to be large numerically, and is bound to be large individually. To belong to the New England Fat Men's Club you have to be a good fellow and weigh 200 pounds or more. There is no maximum weight limit. The president of the club, W. D. Quinby, the Boston candy manufacturer, is a 305-pound light weight.

Exception to the weight rule is made, however, to editors and clergymen. They are taken in at any old weight, presumably on the theory that neither editors nor parsons have time or money to grow fat.

Friday night's proceedings will begin most appropriately with a banquet at 6 o'clock. This club never assembles without starting with a banquet. After every one has eaten and helped out his avoirdupois batting average there will be a business meeting to arrange for the September gathering in Boston, at which great doings are expected.

Secretary H. E. Barker of the club (232 pounds) has sent notices to all club members within a radius of fifty miles of Boston. Railroad and trolley breakdowns within that area next Friday may be attributed to excess weight the transportation companies are hauling to the Fat Men's meeting.

ROBBER GETS $1,000 GEMS

A youthful appearing sneak thief was rifling the dresser in the bedroom of Thomas J. Holton at No. 504 Audubon road early to-day, when Mrs. Holton awoke and screamed. The thief with $1,000 worth of jewelry in his hands jumped out an open window and escaped. The thief climbed through an open window of the apartments on the ground floor. Mr. Holton notified the police at Station 16, but no trace of the thief has been found.

An investigation showed that the robber had taken a solitaire diamond stud, a pair of gold drop earrings and two old gold bracelets set with sapphires and turquoise, valued at $1,000. Mrs. Holton could give only a meager description of the thief. She saw him as a young man of slim build, dressed in a dark suit.

DISCOVER PLOT TO POISON EMPLOYER

SOUTHBRIDGE, April 25.—Miss Blanche G. Howard, housekeeper for Edward Ammidown, notified the police that somebody is trying to poison her employer. Miss Howard says that packages of opium, morphine and cocaine have been left in the barn in the rear of the Ammidown house, No. 77 South street, and she told a strange tale of visits by a mysterious detective who used many disguises and, she says, claimed he was hired by one of Ammidown's relatives to save him from a poison plot. She says Ammidown is worth about $30,000 and has rich relatives in the West.

TURTLE EXPLAINS LABOR BILL VOTE

NORTH ADAMS, April 25.—Senator William Turtle, who refused to vote for the fifty-four-hour bill in the Senate on Friday, to-day said the reason he did not go on record was because he did not approve of the bill in its present form. He did not wish it understood, he declared, that he did not favor the principle involved in the bill. "I shall have an opportunity to vote on the bill," said Turtle, "and will do so, for it will be up for reconsideration soon. Personally I believe that Massachusetts can wait until some of the other New England States have done something along this line."

GIGANTIC ROBBERY IN LITTLEST STORE

LYNN, April 25.—Joseph Cole, a seventeen-year-old youth who says he has no parents was caught in the act of robbing Lynn's smallest store by Patrolman Donoghue early to-day. The lad had taken 29 cents in money and a few cigarettes. The store is known as "The Cigar Box." It is seven feet long and three feet wide. Arraigned before Judge Lummus in the police court, Cole pleaded guilty and was held in $300 for the Grand Jury. He broke down and wept. He told Judge Lummus that he had been living on Kneeland street, Boston.

ICE CARNIVAL OPENS WEEK OF SOCIETY FETES

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

This week opens auspiciously and fairly teems with smart affairs of every sort. To-day comes the long-postponed ice carnival at the new Boston Arena in aid of the Sharon Sanatorium and the smart wedding in Cambridge of Miss Woodman and Mr. Mattison; to-morrow afternoon comes the dress rehearsal of the Vincent Club and in the evening at Brattle Hall in Cambridge the annual Spring dance for the benefit of the Cambridge Social Union; on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons the Vincent Club matinees and the only evening performance Friday night, and the week comes to a grand and brilliant climax on Saturday with the wedding of Alice Sohier and Herbert Bramwell Shaw in Trinity Church at noon.

Despite the fact that Vincent Club girls are working overtime in preparation for their show, they have generously come to the fore and offered their services for this afternoon and evening at the Ice Carnival, and will for sweet charity's sake play the role of ushers and waitresses. Those who are to serve as waitresses include Barbara Burr, Marjory Prescott, Mary Parkman, Catherine Foster, Elizabeth Porter, Elizabeth Denny, Rosamond Bradley, Marian Weld, Katrine Amory, Anna Winsor, Charlotte Allen, Julia Szepley, Mary Pierce, Madeline Dixon, Nora Thayer, Anita Clark, Ellen Farnsworth, Laura Greenough, Dorothy Draper, Esther Freeman, Nina Burnham, Jane Bigelow, Edith Fitz, Constance Zerrahn, Amy Peabody, Ruth Nickerson, Elizabeth Brooks, Elizabeth Grinnell, Harriet Woods, Katherine Saltonstall.

The smart set maids and matrons to serve as ushers include: Mrs. W. A. L. Bazeley, Mrs. Albert F. Bigelow, Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer, Mrs. Herbert K. Burgess, Miss Clemence Crafts, Mrs. David Cheever, Miss Constance Cunningham, Miss Harriot S. Curtis, Miss May de F. Denny, Mrs. Chauncey Eldridge, Mrs. Stephen S. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Philip Gardner, Mrs. John L. Hall, Miss Mary C. Hardy, Mrs. Henry Heard, Miss Helen Homans, Miss Marian Holmans, Mrs. James Jackson, Jr., Mrs. Albert Nickerson, Jr., Miss Anne Nourse, Mrs. Channing Simmons, Mrs. J. Lewis Stackpole, Jr., Mrs. T. Mott Shaw, Mrs. Horace B. Stanton, Miss Mary Vaughan, Mrs. R. C. Wadsworth, Mrs. G. Harbert Windeler, Miss Anna Winsor.

Among Americans to be presented at the May drawing room at Buckingham palace is Mrs. Louis Chapin, who was Miss Julia Tuckerman, and is a daughter of Mrs. Charles Tuckerman of Bay State road. Mrs. Chapin has already been presented at the Italian court by her relative, Mrs. George von L. Meyer. The Chapin-Tuckerman wedding took place at the Church of the Messiah in Boston last January. Mr. Chapin is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Chapin of New York, whose home is now in London.

Miss Natica Inches, the pretty daughter of Mrs. John C. Inches, sailed from New York Saturday on the Berlin for the Mediterranean. Miss Inches and her mother have been abroad nearly every Summer for years.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wheelwright of Jamaica Plain also sailed Saturday and will spend the Summer touring on the Continent.

POLICE SEEK FIREBUG IN WELLESLEY

Chief of Police Kingsbury of Wellesley is trying to run down a firebug who to-day destroyed the hay and grain establishment of F. Diehl & Co., doing $10,000 damage. Chief Kingsbury believes the fire is the work of a fanatic.

Two hundred and fifty tons of hay and a large coal shed and contents were burned. The fire was so threatening that help was summoned from Natick.

"I believe to-day's fire was incendiary," said Chief Kingsbury, "probably the work of a man who is mentally deranged. We expect to make an arrest before long.

"This is the fourth mysterious fire in which Mr. Deihl's property or that of his employe's has suffered during the past two years. The first fire was about two years ago, burning a shed, doing $300 damage.

"The next fire occurred in Mr. Deihl's carriage and harness shop a short time after. That fire did $8,000 damage. It was at night. The next fire was last Summer in the home of John Metill, foreman for Mr. Deihl. The damage was $1,400."

PEACE TERMS FOR 119 GIRL STRIKERS

Overtures for a settlement of the strike of the 119 girl weavers at the Roxbury Carpet Mills, it is declared unofficially, were made by the company to-day. To-night the offer will be placed before the union. It was learned that a definite offer, based on a compromise and looking toward the immediate resumption of work, had been made by representatives of the firm. The girls have been out since February 26 resisting a 1 2per cent. reduction in wages.

Odd Happenings In the Day's News

Oh, What Doings When the Monkey Ate the Match!

NEW YORK, April 25.—Somebody threw a lighted match into a monkey's cage at the Bronx Zoo and Keeper Ford Engleborn had difficulty in putting out the blaze. A little later a man threw three matches of the strike anyway variety to Nightmare, jthe big blue mandrel, who was named for his beauty. Nightmare took one of the matches in his mouth and started to chew it. The match went off, and immediately the air was full of language that made all the other monkeys hide their heads for shame.

Saloon Keepers Must Provide Beds for Drunks.

MORRISON, Ill., April 25.—The City Council has adopted a new plan for dealing with citizens who overestimate their capacity for intoxicants. Any saloon keeper who sells liquor to a man in such quantities that he cannot carry it comfortably must provide a bed for him. If he falls into the hands of the police, the saloon keeper will be arrested and fined.

Clown Is Cheerful as His Ears Are Blown Off.

NEW YORK, April 25.—George Holland, a clown in the circus, while carrying a box of explosives across one of the tents at Fifth avenue and Third street, Brooklyn, dropped it and when he regained consciousness in the hospital he was told that both his ears had been blown off. "Oh, very well," he said, nonchalantly, "I won't have to use any makeup to be funny now."

"Spider Girl," Tired of Life, Turns on the Gas.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Mary Jenkins, the "Spider Girl" with the "Big Otto" show, was found dead in her bed in a cheap lodging house. She left a note telling where here relatives could be located. She had asphyxiated herself with gas.

No. of mortgages	181	188	153
Amount of mortg's	$700,162	$746,113	$1,551,070

The appended table, also compiled by the Real Estate Exchange, shows each day's transactions for the week beginning April 18 and April 23.

	Sales.	Mortgages.	Amount of mortgages.
April 18	76	33	$126,000
April 19	Holiday.
April 20	68	25	58,187
April 21	117	46	237,535
April 22	101	49	174,890
April 23	60	28	103,550
Totals	422	181	$700,162

Among the sales reported to-day was that of the block of five four-story brick buildings and 3,000 square feet of land, all assessed for $19,000, at Nos. 33-43 Camden street, corner of Shawmut avenue, South End, which have been purchased by George H. Wood from Nellie A. Smith. The land is rated for $5,300.

In the North End the estate at No. 29 Tileston street, extending through to Webster avenue, near Hanover street, has been sold by Charles Kolodny to Domenico Fulginiti et ux. It comprises a three-story frame house and 1,940 square feet of land, all taxed for $9,000, of which $5,800 is on the land.

The John P. Webber estate has sold to Antonio Magro the three-story and basement brick house and 790 square feet of land at No. 37 Norman street, near South Margin street, all assessed for $6,700, of which $3,200 is on the land.

In Brighton a frame dwelling and 6,300 square feet of land on Menlo street, between Sparhawk and Henshaw streets, have been sold by Annie R. Bliss to William J. Smith. It is all assessed for $7,300, of which $1,800 is on the land.

D. Arthur Brown of the Tremont building, this city, reports a very successful sale of house lots the past week at Fairlawn Park, the suburban subdivision he has just opened at East Weymouth. Large crowds attended the all-day sale Patriots' Day, and quite a few lots were disposed of. Among the sales the past week were the following, all to residents of the Weymouths, lots 13 to 15 to Mary Powers, lots 19 and 20 and 99 and 100 to John Green, lots 21 to 23 to Mrs. Mary Fisher, and lots 95 to 98 to Mrs. Annie Fisher.

Josiah F. Prescott has sold the John P. Johnson farm on Field street, Raynham, to John Olson of Quincy, who will occupy. It comprises 97 acres of land under cultivation, modern frame dwelling of fourteen rooms, large stock barn, several outbuildings, live stock and personal property. The price paid was $8,000.

The Edward Proulx homestead, on Mill street, North Middleboro, has been sold through the same broker to Mary A. Lake of Roxbury, who will occupy. There are 25 acres of land, eight-room frame house, stable, poultry buildings, stock and personal property. The consideration was $4,500.

Josiah F. Prescott has negotiated the sale of the Ella Burnham property on the Clinton road, Berlin. James H. Perkins of Boston bought for a Summer home. It is valued at $6,300, and there are fourteen acres of land, new modern frame house of ten rooms, stable and several other buildings. The grantors were M. D. Dallopp et ux.

The property owned by L. H. Dyke, on Hale street, Bridgewater, has been sold by J. R. Callahan & Co. to Mardiros Doorigian, who will improve. There is a large house, besides stable, and a good lot.

John D. Hardy, trustee, has sold 6,161 square feet of land fronting on Clinton road, in the Fisher Hill district, to Walter S. Mayo of Boston, who will build for his own occupancy.

The executors of the will of Ada E. Breed have sold the estate at No. 83 Federal street, Salem, to William H. Fallon, who will occupy the property for a private boarding house. This estate is one of the best residential properties in that part of Salem and was known as the Chase estate before it was bought by Mr. Breed more than thirty years ago. It comprises a three-story frame dwelling house, stable and 7,900 square feet of land. William S. Felton & Co. were the brokers.

RHEUMATISM ADVICE

Given Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription—Is Easily Mixed.

"Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." This is not new in this city as many of the worst cases of chronic and acute rheumatism and back-ache have been cured by it. Good results come the first day. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

DOVES FIGHT THE PHILLIES IN THIRD CONFLICT TO-DAY

KETCHEL TELLS TAD HE IS SURE TO BEAT LANGFORD IN FIGHT

By TAD.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The big blow-off comes Wednesday night in Philly when Langford hooks up with Ketchel.

There's a fight you can't figure any more than you can bet on a can of dynamite against a pail of nitro-glycerine. The thing is coming off that's all we know, but who's going to get it is the question.

Joe Woodman rang up yesterday to tell us that the "Tar Baby" was as fine as a fiddle and ready to eat a wild cat. Joe says that they don't expect any trouble from the Ketchel person and that two or three rounds should suffice. Of course, Joe says a whole lot of things, and lots of time he chirps through the sky piece. He may be right this time and he may be wrong, but one thing is certain and that is that Mr. Ketchel is ready to eat a wild cat himself.

He never looked as he does right now, and to quote "Pete the goat" he never was no better no time.

Steve has certainly worked hard for this go. Both his hands are as good as they could be and his speed is surprising. He has seen Langford in the moving pictures and figures that if Jim Flynn can land, it's a pipe. Steve talked just a wee bit about Sam Saturday afternoon to a bunch of writers and what he said was good:

Ketchel Sure of Winning.

"Jim Flynn beat Langford in eight rounds, eh? Joe Jeannette made him quit in Boston. Jim Barry dropped him a couple of times, eh? Are any of those fellows fast, or can they hit the way I do? I'm satisfied. Pull the bell."

He is so sure of winning that he has already written to Coffroth about the July date out there, and is figuring on a tour of Europe after that.

The cowboy terror says that he hasn't been in such shape since he fought Johnson last October and intends making a grand clean-up of the middleweight division. There's going to be some mob at that fight from reports. The special train from New York will be packed from the engine to the observation platform and full of live ones at that. Ringside seats are ten bucks a copy. Up in the gallery, of course, it runs down some.

BOTH FIGHTERS SAY THEY WILL WIN BY KNOCKOUT

Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel will meet at the National A. C. of Philadelphia next Wednesday night in a six-round fight that is attracting the attention of sporting men all over the country. Langford says he will win by a knockout in two rounds, while Ketchel declares he will land a sleep wallop before three rounds have elapsed. If these terrific punchers mean what they say the fight will be one of the most sensational in ring history.

A knockout means the windup of one or the other as a first-class fighter at middle weight. A victory secured in this way will clearly define which has the better claim on the middleweight championship of the world, even though they will not make the 158-pound limit.

Ketchel is recognized as the middleweight champion at present, but in Langford he will meet the most dangerous pugilist of his weight and inches in the world. Langford can make 158 pounds any time, he says, but his best fighting weight is about 165. Ketchel, too, can scale at 158, but he prefers to be heavier, and at 160 or 162 he thinks he is invincible.

As a result of the Ketchel-Langford fight has been talked of for more than a year, and though several battles seemed imminent the arrangements fell through until the big Quaker Club clinched matters with a fine offer.

It is generally understood that Ketchel will receive $10,000, win, lose or draw, for his services. Just what Langford's share will be nobody knows, but it is safe to say that the amount will not be less than $6,000. It is expected that the house will amount to more than $25,000, which means that the promoters will not put on this attractive scrap for the fun of it.

The Fairmount A. C. of New York signed the men to box ten rounds in September for a guarantee of $25,000, split equally, it is said. This affair was called off two days before the time fixed by the club because of interference by Governor Hughes.

The fight on Wednesday will be awaited with unusual interest. Ketchel has been training faithfully for more than three weeks and looks both strong and fast. His hands are tough and his wind is good, while he possesses wonderful confidence in himself, as usual. He does not fear Langford, even though the latter is regarded as a scientific marvel and a tremendous hitter. Ketchel, also a great puncher, does not believe Langford has gameness enough to stand up under real punishment, and for that reason he says he intends to mix it up as soon as he comes out of his corner.

YALE WILL NOT SEND RELAY TEAM TO MEET

NEW HAVEN, April 25.—Yale has lost from her track team E. K. Mullins of Salem, O., because of heart trouble. He was one of the best middle-distance runners in the East. Baird, another middle-distance star, has stopped training. Both Baird and Mullins were members of Yale's relay team.

Their absence has caused Yale to send word to the University of Pennsylvania that no relay team will be sent to the track carnival at Philadelphia next Saturday. Yale has not missed sending a relay team before since the annual games were started fifteen years ago. Yale will, however, send all her individual stars to the meet.

THREE GERMAN AUTO RACERS ARE COMING

NEW YORK, April 25.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., announced the receipt of a cablegram from the Kaiserlicher Automobile Club of Berlin entering three cars for the Grand Prize race for the gold challenge cup, to be held on the new motor parkway and adjacent road in Long Island, October 15, 1910 under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America.

It is considered likely that the example set by Germany will be followed by France, Italy and possibly Great Britain and Belgium.

ATHLETES IN N. E. PUT UNDER THE BAN

The following athletes have been suspended by the registration committee of the New England Association for competing in an unsanctioned race at Hyde Park April 19, 1910; Francis M. Carroll, F. E. Brown, J. F. Cummings, Francis Hiney, Thomas Halpin, Walter H. Lalor, Robert J. Maxwell, John H. Mulhern, Stephen J. Steele, John F. Tegg, John J. Shanks, Albert Rocheleau, F. McManus, H. Burns.

All the suspended athletes are residents of Hyde Park.

SATURDAY—Frankie Conley vs. Danny Webster, Los Angeles; Johnny Willetts vs. Leo Houck, Philadelphia.

KENDRICK FIGHTS BRANNIGAN DRAW

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—After ten rounds of rather slow fighting the match between Jem Kendrick, English bantamweight, and Patsy Brannigan of Pittsburg at the New Orleans A. C. ended in a draw. There were knockdowns, but in the fourth round Kendrick drew blood from Brannigan's nose with a straight left to the face, and a little later Brannigan's right eye was badly cut and almost closed.

HARVARD CREW RACES CORNELL ON MAY 30

The next big race for the Harvard varsity crew comes on May 30 with Cornell. After the victory over the Middies the varsity will get a rest for several days before getting together to train for the Ithacans. All the Harvard crews will be out to-day on the river. Withington, the football captain, who rowed five last year, will be back this week to try for his seat and there may be some changes in the makeup.

TIGERS ARE AFTER 1911 PITCHERS

DETROIT, Mich., April 25.—The Detroit Baseball Club has two scouts watching college teams for pitching prospects for 1911. Terms already have been tendered the star box artist of an Eastern university. His name is withheld in order to protect him to the end of the college year, but he may join the Tigers this season. President Navin wants to get the best pitching staff in the world.

BARR WANTED BY HARVARD TEAM

In view of the phenomenal work of the Yale pole vaulters in the recent class meet, the Harvard track management is making an effort to get J. L. Barr, who tied for second in the intercollegiate last year, to come out for the event again. Barr suffered an injury to his wrist last Summer, but it has now recovered and there seems no reason why he should not again win points for the Crimson. His availability might mean the winning or losing of one of the big meets, as he has done over 12 feet 4 inches in the pole vault.

MONSTROUS ENTRY LIST FOR PENN MEET

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—With fully 2,000 entries already received, the University of Pennsylvania's great relay carnival set for next Saturday has already broken all existing records. These athletes come from every college and university of the country, and records are expected to tumble in many of the scheduled events.

CORBETT TO BOX BARBOUR.

Among the latest volunteers for the Young Corbett testimonial to be held at the Fairmont A. C., New York, Monday, May 2, are Jim Corbett, Thomas Sharkey, Johnny Coulon and Warren Barbour, the millionaire boxer. Jack Cooper notified the committee that Mr. Barbour would positively appear, and it has been arranged that Corbett and Barbour will give a three-round exhibition as one of the features of that night.

TUFTS TO PLAY HARVARD THIS WEEK

The Tufts College baseball squad has returned to the hill from the most successful trip in recent years. Four victories in six games was the score, although the team was severely handicapped by injuries to the backstops.

Two important games are slated for this week. On Friday Dartmouth will appear here for the first time in three years, and on Saturday Tufts will meet Harvard at Soldiers' Field for the first time since 1899.

TIGER CREW TO ROW SCHOOL BOYS

PRINCETON, N. J., April 25.—The rowing race between the Princeton freshman crew and the Philadelphia Central High School for May 14 seems to be pretty definitely assured. This will be the first race with an outside crew that Princeton will have had on Lake Carnegie. The students are in hopes that it will pave the way for a 'varsity race, too.

KRAMER INJURED IN NEWARK BIKE RACE

NEW YORK, April 25.—Frank Kramer of Orange, N. J., American champion cyclist, sustained painful injuries during the five-mile professional race on the Vailsburg cycle track at Newark, N. J.

P. O. Helius, the Australian, won the one-half-mile scratch professional over John Bedell. Eddie Root won the two-mile race and the five-mile race went to Iver Lawson, who beat out Heller.

JEFFRIES IS FAVORITE OVER JOHNSON, 2 TO 1

NEW YORK, April 25—James J. Jeffries was to-day installed as a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting on his fight with Jack Johnson. With the go more than two months off over $75,000 has already been put up in wagers in New York alone.

It is estimated by prominent sportsmen that by July 4, between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 will have been bet in this city. More than ten special trains have already been arranged for and many special cars besides to carry parties to San Francisco for the big event.

A train de luxe has been chartered by a party of noblemen who will make a special trip from England to be at the ringside. Lord Lonsdale is understood to be the leader of this party.

The fight fever has excited Wall street and many prominent financiers will make the journey in private cars and otherwise. Charles M. Schwab will take a party of Bethlehem steel men out, and a group of contractors have secured a train. Besides, clubs and newpapers are getting up tours. A thousand berth reservations, representing $250,000, are expected in the next three weeks.

thousands of dollars offered on the boilermaker. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Jeffries will rule favorite right up to the moment he steps into the ring at Emeryville on July 4.

In fact, many sporting men believe he will receive a world of backing at 2½ or 3 to 1 at the last moment. If these odds are quoted it is the opinion of many that Jeff's popularity will be the sole reason.

The widespread desire to see the white man win will be backed by unlimited money. But, regardless of his color, Johnson will surely find supporters among the speculators who make it a business to take the short end of every contest between men or beasts.

Some veteran ring followers will tell you that all glove fights between hard hitters are even money propositions and that odds should never be allowed to go begging.

These sharps will also inform you that many ringside favorites in big fights have been defeated. John L. Sullivan was favorite when Jim Corbett beat him, and Corbett had a call in the odds when Fitzsimmons put him away. Then Fitz was a strong choice when Jeffries stopped him at Coney Island. Burns was the favorite when Johnson beat him in Australia. McGovern was in overwhelming favor when Young Corbett knocked him out in Hartford. Jack Dempsey had the greater amount of backing when Fitzsimmons stowed him away. Walcott had the odds on Lavigne, who trimmed him in the great fight at Maspeth. Tommy Ryan was the favorite over McCoy, who put him to sleep at the same club.

Many other fights in which favorites were bowled over could be enumerated here to illustrate the argument that nothing is sure in the prize ring.

FRISCO BETTORS PICK JEFF AT ODDS OF 10 TO 6

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—In Frisco's leading sporting resorts Jeffries is quoted as a 10 to 6 favorite over Johnson, with

BROCKTON HIGH HAS STRONG NINE OUT

BROCKTON, April 25.—Brockton High opens its season on the diamond Wednesday with one of the strongest teams that ever represented the local institution, and followers of the team look for a successful season. Manager Gerald Keith has arranged a fine schedule, and the team will meet the fastest that Southern Massachusetts can produce.

In the days of Barney Reilly, "Calck" Raymond, "Spike" Dennie and Arthur E. Brides, who later made marks for themselves in the college baseball world, baseball lovers turned out in swarms to see the boys play, and this year's interest promises to exceed that.

ICE CARNIVAL IN AID OF SANATORIUM

The recent postponement of the ice carnival in aid of the Sharon Sanatorium has worked out to its distinct advantage, in that it has allowed more time to work out many details that would otherwise have been neglected. One change in the program to-day has been made necessary by the inability of the Arlington High School to compete in the afternoon hockey match. In their stead the Harvard Freshman seven will meet the Newton High School team, champions of the Preparatory School League. This match will be started at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

A distinct novelty for the patrons of the carnival will be the speed skating events. The pace attained by the speedsters and the ease with which they negotiate the turns is amazing to those who are not familiar with fast skating indoors. During the past week the speed boys have been working out late every afternoon and have rounded into excellent shape once more. Members of the Boston 1915 Skating Club will attract much attention in their new racing suits of dark blue, with white trimmings.

GRANT TO BOX AT WARE.

Jack Grant, the East Boston heavyweight, has been training with Andrew Morris, who recently defeated Al Kubiak, for his bout with Tug Kennedy at Ware, Mass., next Thursday night. Grant is confident that he will whip Kennedy, who is the champion of the Connecticut Valley.

YALE WILL HAVE SUMMER FOOT BALL PRACTICE

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 25.—The only thing which has, apparently, been settled by the three weeks of Yale Spring football practice is that more work than ever before in preparing for the gridiron campaign will be necessary. While no formal announcement has been made it seems almost a safe prediction that another order for Spring practice will be ordered and that there will be Summer practice for the first time in more than fifteen years.

Captain Fred Daly of the eleven admits that drill in the revised game, with the rule code in as chaotic a state as it is at present is, cannot amount to much. Captain Daly tried a week of scrimmaging on the home gridiron but the past week he has cut out that feature of the practice and has had the kickers work in simple punting and varieties of the kicking game.

It was at first hoped that something practical might be made out of the new rules by trying scrimmage drill at the Spring practice. Nothing of the kind has happened and Captain Daly, on this account, stopped the scrimmaging a week before he expected to do so.

The football squad will be dismissed till after the rules committee holds its adjourned meeting in New York city, April 29. At that time the code will be given its final draft, it is expected, and it is thought that Captain Daly will order out the squad again with the rules once more on a substantial basis. This should make a beginning at learning the revolutionized game but the coaches talk of asking for Summer work to get the eleven on a working basis before the Fall term opens. Nothing whatever has been decided but a plan which has been discussed is to summon the squad together at Gales Ferry, on the Thames, above New London, where the Yale oarsmen go for their three weeks' training before the Harvard races, and spend a season in secret practice. The plan looks feasible.

Yale, Harvard and Princeton, fully a decade ago, agreed not to do Summer practice, except in a few individual cases, but this agreement will have to be modified if the Gales Ferry scheme goes through.

CRIMSON TEAM PLAYS TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

The Harvard baseball team will rest to-day after its strenuous southern trip, but the squad will be on the field to-morrow as there are two games on the card Thursday at 4 with Williams and Saturday with Tufts on Soldier's Field. Hicks will probably pitch against the Berkshire boys, while Ernst faces Tufts. Williams played the Crimson thirteen innings last year.

STAR BOUT AT LAWRENCE.

Jeff Doherty of New Haven and Eddie Murphy of South Boston have been matched to spar twelve rounds at the New Boston A. C. in Lawrence next Friday night. Both boxers are in fine shape and Doherty feels confident of defeating Murphy.

CORBETT AFTER A BIG BOXER

James J. Corbett, the former world's heavyweight champion, will look over the boxers at the Armory Club to-morrow evening. Corbett is anxious to get a line on a good heavyweight. He has heard many good reports about Porky Flynn, and in New York he says they think Jim Savage is the most likely looking heavyweight they have ever had in the "Big City." Corbett keeps in close touch with Jim Coffroth, the Frisco promoter. He says that he is looking over the talent in the East for Coffroth, and if the winner of the Savage-Flynn contest comes up to expectations will send him to the Coast. Corbett says that there is a great opportunity for a young husky heavyweight just now. The Jeffries-Johnson match has set the sporting world on fire, and either Flynn or Savage will have a chance to show in California just prior to the "big mill." Coffroth wants the winner of this contest to meet such stars as Tommy Burns, Jim Flynn and Jim Barry. Porky Flynn is improving every day and there are any number of local fans who think that he could whip Jim Barry, and do it a whole lot quicker than Sam Langford did last week.

A SUNDAY AMERICAN want advt. is often the road to fortune.

FINE RECORD OF REGAL PLUGGER

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Regal 30 Plugger, which made its entry into this city on Saturday, is attracting no end of attention at the local salesrooms of the Regal Company in Park square. That a car so small and selling at such a moderate price should establish and retain the record that this one has done is considered as exceptionally remarkable, and in the words of Manager Mutty proves that it is made of the material that will withstand the hardest kind of hard usage. The "Plugger" will remain in this city to-day and to-morrow morning will again go on the road to complete its task of visiting all of the Regal agencies in the East.

An unusual legal point has been decided by a police justice in Baltimore. Two men were arrested, each charged with exceeding the speed limit in Druid Hill Park, while one of the men was charged with using the park roads for other than pleasure driving. It developed that the car driven by one of the men had broken down and the other man offered to tow his machine back to the garage, the two cars passing through Druid Hill Park on their journey to the garage.

The general superintendent of the park ordered their arrest and appeared as prosecutor, declaring they had been going faster than the law allows. At the time they were arrested the owner of the damaged car was sitting in his machine, which was being towed by the other car. The justice ruled that "a motor car that is not running by its own power and the owner thereof cannot be held accountable for its actions," and dismissed the charge of speeding against the owner of the machine that had been towed. The driver of the car that was towing was fined $10 and costs, but the charge of using the park roads for other than pleasure driving was dismissed.

Our foreign trade in automobiles now amounts to $12,000,000 per annum, or $4,000,000 imports and $8,000,000 exports. Exports in the fiscal year 1902, when record was first kept, amounted to about $1,000,000, and value of automobiles and parts since exported has been $30,000,000, of which $25,000,000 has developed in five years ending December, 1909, with prospect that the fiscal year 1910 will show exports of fully $8,000,000.

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

WAITING FOR JUNE.

By F. W. RYAN.

The season is swinging along at a lope;
  The grass on the diamond is green;
All prone-to-be doubtfuls brace up with new hope,
  As classical baseball is seen.
Old Beanville is proud of its promising boys;
  The grumblers are [illegible];
Just one thing is lacking to round out our joys—
  The straw hat has not yet appeared.

We cheer Joseph Wood as he benches the man
  Whose hit would have brought in a run;
Applause thunders forth from each triple-lunged fan,
  As Speaker sends one to the sun;
McConnell's right there with his neat double plays;
  Stahl's bag work holds hardly a flaw—
Yet, out on the bleachers, they beggar these days
  That stretch to the "kelly" of straw.

A Summerish sun draws a sweltering mob;
  The [illegible] opens his mint;
The tropical peanut is right on the job;
  The [illegible] is preparing his [illegible].
Prine Jerry is humming his popular tune,
  "We'll show 'em this year that we can!"
While everyone waits for the birth of bright June,
  That gives us the straw-hatted fan.

WILL SOME ONE DIG UP A JINX chaser and have it in readiness for those Doves when they arrive in Boston Wednesday. And by the way, if you get hold of one before then, lead it over to the Huntington avenue grounds and stick it onto the Red Sox. They both need it. Rush Jones put in his time yesterday scouring the wilds of Melrose but without success. Rush is the best two-handed jinx chaser in this neck of the woods, but declared he couldn't raise a mascot in this case even with a bottle of Angelica.

THAT THE BOXING FANS OF BOSTON like those all-star shows Johnny Mooney is putting on, especially when a couple of heavyweights are billed as part of the attraction, is shown pretty conclusively by the demand for tickets for the bouts to-morrow evening. Porky Flynn and Jim Savage are the big fellows who mix it, and as the result of a recent no-decision bout in New York which each claims to have won, there is no love lost between them. They both promise to go after a knock-out from the tap of the gong, and I wouldn't be surprised if it came off. Leo Houck, who hooks up with Dave Deshler, is another newcomer and judging from past performances, he's a right good boy. Eddie Murphy, the South Boston lightweight, takes on Tommy O'Keefe and the bout will be a hummer. I've been studying up the dope on the bunch and haven't yet made up my mind as to which three scrappers will be weighted down with the responsibility of carrying my two bits. I'm still doping them out.

THE ATTELL FAMILY—OR PART OF it, at least—perform in New York this week. Abie and Tommy Murphy arrange things Thursday night while Monte has a soiree Wednesday evening with Joe Wagner. Too bad they couldn't have persuaded Caesar Attell to get back into the game for this one week at any rate, but Caesar has found a more profitable and safer game than boxing. He is now busy playing uncle to impecunious sports in San Francisco, who have good collateral to put up as security.

QUITE A FAMILY, THOSE ATTELLS. When all three boys were fighting their mother used to say:

"When Abie and Monte are fighting I should always be afraid. But when Caesar has it a fight, I shall not worry. He knows it enough not to let them make for him a knockout. He knows more as the referee when he shall quit fighting."

THE BIG NOISE IN THE BOXING game this week is the meeting of Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel at Philadelphia, Wednesday night. Both men are said to be in great shape for the mill, as it means a lot to each. I look for Langford to win, but would not be greatly surprised to see it go to a draw. Any finish short of a knockout means a long fight between them on the Coast with a few barrels of plunks on the side in the way of a big purse and picture money. Fighters nowadays are strong for the coin and six-round, no-decision bouts do not mean much anyway.

BY THE WAY, IT WAS A MATCH BETWEEN Langford and Ketchel which put boxing on the blink for a long time over in New York. They did not meet but neither did any other boxers mingle in the big town for several months. Let us hope that the Philadelphia bout will be pulled off without any bad after effects.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Dear Sir—Will you please answer in your Monday's issue, and inform us who holds the record for the fastest time around the bases, and the time, and oblige,
"THE PLAID CAPS."
Pawtucket, R. I.

According to my dope books the best official time was made by Cobb in Chicago on October 18, 1908 when he circled the bases in thirteen and four-fifths seconds. The best unofficial time was made by Marty Hogan in Indianapolis in 1895, the mark accredited to him being thirteen and one-fifth.

U. S. LEAGUE OPENS MAY 14

Eleven strong New England baseball cities were represented at a meeting of the United States Baseball League at the United States Hotel yesterday afternoon in this city.

Dana E. Spaulding of Boston and a big city business man presided. The circuit committee, made up of Boston, Newport and Salem, will report at a meeting at 1 o'clock next Sunday, May 1, same place, in Boston. Then the cities to be picked for the eight-club circuit will be chosen by the committee, which is made up of Ben Anthony of Newport, Colonel William Laverty of Salem and Eugene J. O'Connor, Jr., of Boston.

It was voted to open the league season on May 14 and close on Sept. 12 next. Class C protection, with a salary limit of $1,200 per month, will be asked for from the national board of baseball. William Read & Sons offered a fine pennant for a 112-game championship series. The cities on hand for business were as follows:

Portland and Biddeford, Me.; Dover and Manchester, N. H.; Boston, Salem, Taunton and Fitchburg, Mass.; Newport, Providence and Woonsocket, R. I.

As lively Sunday baseball will be a big attraction in at least two of the cities in the U. S. League, the new organization will be perfected at next Sunday's meeting with every prospect of success.

TAFT WARNED TO SHUN BALL GAME

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 25.—St. Louis Central Trades Labor Union passed a resolution ordering its secretary to notify President Taft that if he attended the baseball game between St. Louis and Cleveland here, May 4, invitations to which he has accepted, he would offer an affront to organized labor throughout the United States, and would be subject to a fine, as he is a member of the Steam Shovel and Dredgemen's Union. The Central Labor body will also put committees at the ball grounds May 4 to keep persons from entering by persuasion and by passing around literature.

MARATHON WON BY SWEDE.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Thure Johannsen of Sweden defeated James J. Crowley, the former long-distance champion of the Irish-American Athletic Club, in a professional match race over the full Marathon distance. The Swede won by a little over two miles in 2h. 39m. 42 4-5s.

Starving for Beauty

Life Means Something More to Human Beings Than Being Clothed and Fed, Says Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

A LITTLE story was told me by a big-hearted, generous woman, who tries to do all the good she can in the world so far as she can see the way to do it.

An active worker in a society organized to help the poor in her city, the lady remarked that at one time the society gave money to the needy, but now it gave only clothing, food, fuel and assistance to find employment.

"You see," the lady said, "we discovered that it was not always wise to give money.

"One poor woman we had helped to stock her cellar with fuel, and we had laid in a store of provisions for her; and then we gave her $5, money for immediate necessities.

"A short time afterward I was calling on her to see how she was getting along. I observed a very pretty vase on her mantel; something I had not seen before.

"I mentioned it, and asked her if it was presented by one of our ladies.

"Oh, no," the woman answered sweetly and smiling brightly; "I bought it. It was only three dollars, and I think it so beautiful! I love it.

"Therefore," continued the charity worker, "we decided we would give no money to our poor people. We cannot afford to buy vases for them while so many suffer with hunger and cold."

The lady was quite right in her view of the matter.

She Craved the Beautiful

Yet one who has lived long enough to study the human heart, to understand its many phases, cannot help feeling a certain sympathy for the poor woman who was starved for beauty as well as for food.

The vase represented to her hungry heart some phase of life for which she longed; perhaps it brought back to her something she had experienced in better days; either here or in a former life.

And its possession may have been of greater value to her than all the food and fuel with which she had been supplied.

Life means something more to human beings than being clothed and fed.

In every soul there is an instinctive longing for beauty.

It is this longing which has given the world beautiful homes, beautiful statues and works of art.

It has developed genius and given the world architects, painters, poets, landscape gardeners and home decorators.

Every Human's Longing

It has changed clusters of hovels into cities beautiful; and transformed the savage, wrapped in the skins of wild animals, into the man and woman clothed in artistic raiment.

It is right for every human being to long for lovely surroundings; and some time, when the race has grown wiser, and kinder (for true wisdom always brings kindness), and when Power walks hand in hand with Justice, the human race will include beauty among the necessities of life and every man, woman and child will be given the natural privileges which lead out and into beauty.

Our Puritan fathers gave us great principles; they taught by precept and example the worth of courage, virtue, honor and industry. But they ignored beauty; indeed they sacrificed beauty as an offering on the altar of Duty. And our country is only just awakening from its mistaken idea that beauty is a superfluous possession, and that the craving for beauty is not an evidence of weakness or degeneracy.

We are coming into the realization that beauty is an expression of God. And that the longing in the human heart for beauty is the cry of the soul for its own rightful inheritance.

A Dream That May Come True

It is well for us to dream of beauty and to picture to our own minds the world as it might be.

We might have a land where there were no needy people; no people so poor that they did not enjoy some bit of earth and green garden spots; where there were no houses which did not suggest restfulness for the inmates; and where there were no unemployed.

We might have beautiful, broad boulevards winding about the land from east to west and from north to south; roads which would give employment to the needy and make pleasure and delight for the well-to-do. We might have gardens and green fields and trees and flowers, where now is desolation and disorder; and beauty might greet the eye wherever it turned.

We have the land, the riches, the people and the brains to make this dream come true.

And if enough people want the dream to come true IT WILL.

To Teach Women How to Cope with Business

A Great Work Undertaken in Boston at the Instance of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe

By DOROTHY DIX

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE believes that the increased cost of living is partly due to women not being able to cope with financial matters, and has started a club among Boston women to study applied economics, relating especially to problems of the household.

I DIDN'T KNOW IT COULD FLY!

Most women regard money as a thing to be spent, not saved.

More power to the movement. May it spread throughout the length and breadth of the country; for if there is anything that women need to know, it is the plain, ordinary rudiments of business.

It is unbelievable, how absolutely ignorant women are on this subject. They are unfamiliar with even the commonest commercial usage, and would no more know how to make out a note, or draw a draft or execute a deed than they would know how to construct a skyscraper or sail an ocean liner.

Women's incompetence in business matters has always been one of the choice jests of man. We have all laughed over the story of the lady who signed her first check "Yours lovingly," and of her twin sister who, when her husband started her a nice morocco account book and entered on the credit side of $500, balanced it by writing opposite to it, "Spent it all."

These stories, however, cease to be funny when we come face to face with the result of these women's colossal ignorance in business, which spells financial ruin for them the minute they are left to depend on themselves.

Women the Victims of Sharpers

The woods are full of starving women, who have been left comfortable fortunes by their husbands or fathers, but who have thrown away, or fooled away, their money on schemes that were such palpable frauds that they would not have taken in a boy baby, or who have let themselves be held up by the first glib talking stranger who came down the pike.

Indeed, so often does this happen that when we hear of a man dying, our first thought is to speculate whether the executor will get all of his estate, or whether his wife and daughters will lend out their money to Cousin John without security, because he wears whiskers and always has family prayers; or whether they will invest their all in wild cat mining stock, because it has such a lovely printed border around the stock certificates.

But of one thing we are reasonably sure. They will make ducks and drakes of the money through sheer, undiluted ignorance. And how could anybody expect them to do anything else, when they have never earned a dollar, by work, outside of their homes, and have no idea of what to do with a dollar, after they get it, except to spend it.

If they are left with houses, they don't know how to attend to the repairs, or how to collect the rent, or even where to go to pay the taxes. If they are left with stocks and bonds, they don't know which are good, or which are bad. If they have money to invest, they don't know what is a fair return to expect, and why they should be suspicious of propositions that promise extraordinary dividends.

They must go and ask some man all of these questions, and they are as absolutely at his mercy as a child would be.

No wonder the poor creatures are robbed. No wonder they are the foredoomed victims of sharpers.

Girls Can Be Taught Business

Now, the ordinary girl is just as quick and bright about learning things as the ordinary boy. Moreover, there is nothing so deep and dark and mysterious in plain, every day finance that the feminine mind can't grasp it, and the only reason that men are able to look after their own business affairs intelligently, and women are not, is because a boy is taught business and a girl is not.

As a matter of fact, when women are given any chance at all, they nearly always prove to have very keen business minds, and are extraordinarily quick in grasping a commercial proposition. They are also conservative and timid, with a horror of debt, and deathly afraid of poverty; and it is only their ignorance that makes them the champion gold brick buyers of the universe.

If they had the slightest idea of what they were doing, nothing on earth would induce them to risk, even a dollar, on anything that wasn't as safe as the Bank of England.

It has always seemed to me one of the most unaccountable and pitiful things in the world that men will spend their lives in slaving for their wives and daughters—trying in every way to scrape together enough money to leave their womenkind well cared for when they die—and yet will not teach these very women how to take care of the money they are left.

They Lack Business Training

For every man knows that the widow and the female orphan are the prey of every dishonest scoundrel with whom they have dealings. They are simply lambs in the hands of the shearer; and one would think that the least fond husband and father would at least try to teach these defenceless ones how to save themselves as much as they could.

Undoubtedly, also, a lot of woman's extravagance is due to their lack of business training, and the irresponsible attitude towards money that this engenders in them. The average woman has no settled income that she is bound to make meet definite debts. She is merely given what she says she has to have, and it comes in dribblets and goes the same way, and she really doesn't know what she spends, or whether she is extravagant or not.

There is a story told of a woman who teased her husband for a brooch that would cost $2,000. He insisted that it was more than they could afford to pay for a trinket, but she continued to beg for it, and at last he sent the money to pay for it to her in large, chunky silver dollars. It was more than she could lift and the idea of paying out so much money for so small an object, horrified her.

"Why," she said, "I didn't mind giving just a little slip of paper for it, but all this money! Never!"

Women should be taught the real value of money.

This story fairly represents women's attitude towards the commercial proposition, and it will be a glad day not only for themselves, but for their husbands, when they seriously undertake to learn something about business and how it is carried on.

The Ballad of Meter Mike

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

WHEN Meter Mike was sent to jail for stealing fifty bones,
He did not waste his leisure time emitting futile moans;
But when the warden went off watch, a shingle nail he took,
And on the wall scratched poetry—enough to fill a book.
The warden read it, and observed: "I don't know what it means,
And so I think it ought to suit the high-brow magazines."

The warden took the poetry, and copied it by hand,
And sent it to an editor, who said, "'Twas simply grand,"
And printed such a lot of it the Governor was moved
To think that Meter Mike had been sufficiently reproved.
And so he took his trusty pen, and wrote "We need no guard on
A person who can write like that, I send herewith a pardon."

So Meter Mike got out of jail, and lovely verses made—
For prison is a splendid place to learn the poet's trade.
But poetry was quoted at two cents a line or so,
While stealing netted Meter Mike full fifty bucks a throw.
And so he shook his lyre, plucked the laurels from his brow,
And, as he did in earlier days, he steals his living now.

Percy and the Hatpin Fiend

By HANK

IS THAT A HAT OR A PIN-CUSHION?
THE SIMPLE LIFE
H.L.

She got three seats in the subway train without difficulty

"OH! My!" exclaimed the Show Girl as Percy came into the restaurant and seated himself opposite her at the marble table. "What's the matter with your face? Have you been wrestling with that alleged safety razor again?"

"No," replied Percy, "those marks on my cheek, to which you are doubtless referring, represent one of the most harrowing experiences of my life."

"Oh, how thrilling," said the Show Girl, enthusiastically. "Did you save somebody's life?"

"Yes," answered her companion, "my own, but it was a narrow escape."

"Tell me about it. I'm dying to know," said the Show Girl eagerly.

"On my way here from the theatre," Percy told her, "I descended into the subway. A train came in and the crowd surged toward the doors. I was about to hurl myself through the opening when I heard shrieks of pain from men in the crush behind me, and I hesitated. My delay nearly proved fatal."

"Oh!" gasped the Show Girl. "What was it?"

"Only a demure, doll-eyed damsel calmly wading through the crowd," said Percy.

"But the shrieks of pain?" queried the Show Girl.

"I'm coming to that," said Percy. "She wore a hat as big as a wagon wheel and sticking out from all sides of it were the ends of hatpins, cruel, sharp-pointed, merciless poniards. As she walked through the crowd strong men fell back with gory faces, showing how they had dared to brave the modern millinery juggernaut. She sailed into the car with the hatpin points dripping red, some of them being garnished with puffs and other false hair adornments snagged from the heads of women in the crowd."

"Oh, it must have been a beauty!" exclaimed the Show Girl.

"Who, the wearer of the hat?" asked Percy.

"No, the hat," answered the Show Girl. "How was it trimmed?"

"Oh, heartless woman!" said Percy. "You care nothing for my wounds."

"Yes, I do; truly I do," the Show Girl made haste to reply, "but I would like to know how it was trimmed."

"Just like a woman," sighed Percy. "I don't know how it was trimmed. If I'd tried to look at it my eyes would now probably be adding to its further adornment on the end of one of its spikes."

"I'll bet she got a seat," said the Show Girl.

"You win," said Percy; "she did. In fact, she got three seats. Two fellers tried to sit on each side of her, but the train gave a lurch and as her head swung back and forth, they fled with their hands clapped to gaping wounds in lacerated cheeks. One big man sat down by her. He thought he was all right. His head towered above the danger line of hatpin points. But he only stayed for a minute. In that time his arm got a dose of pin-thrusts that opened up his vaccination marks and caused him to leap for a strap."

"Well, I don't blame the girl," said Percy's companion. "You men are always complaining about the Elevated and Subway crush. Think of the poor women, you say. Well, it seems to me that the 'poor women' have solved the problem. If a bunch of them would get together and wade into a Subway mob at going-home time I'll bet they'd all get seats and there wouldn't be any crowding about it either."

"How about the wounded victims?" asked Percy.

"[illegible] keep away they wouldn't get [illegible]," said the Show Girl. "It looks as if the big hat pin is going a long [illegible] those male subway hogs politeness and respect for what they [illegible] to call the 'weaker sex.'"

"That's true, kid," Percy admitted.

"And also," the Show Girl went on, "although I'm not up much on suffragism I'm of the opinion that a woman with a bunch of nerve and a hat full of pins can get almost anything she wants in a crowd."

"I was thinking," said Percy, "that if women ever get to be soldiers, an army of them wearing hats with pins like those I was telling you about could put any enemy out of business by charging the opposing ranks heads down."

"Now you're getting sarcastic," replied the Show Girl, "but just the same a long hat pin comes in good when you want to fish an olive out of a half empty bottle, doesn't it?"

"Y-e-s," Percy admitted reluctantly.

"And I heard you say that they make elegant pipe cleaners," argued the Show Girl.

"True," admitted Percy.

"And the other day the sink in the kitchen of our boarding house got all clogged up," said the Show Girl, "and I fixed it in a minute by shoving down one of my hat pins."

"Mm'm," murmured Percy, as he picked up the bill of fare, "you win, as usual, my own. It's certainly a bum hat pin that can't stick somebody good. Let's have some butter cakes. It's my treat."

FUDGE MAKES YOU FAT

DR. HARVEY WILEY, famous "poison specialist" and originator of the so-called "poison squad" in Washington, to whom he fed various articles of food to note their effect on the human system, has issued a warning against fudge. It's all right, he says, if girls wish to get fat, but it's bad for girls who already are stout. "Fudge is harmful," says the doctor. "It makes girls fat, owing to its excess of carbon hydrates, which produce adipose tissue. College and high school girls are round, roly-poly creatures, instead of the slender maids that the country used to know before the fudge craze seized the nation." So beware of fudge.

What the World Admires, The Courage to Go On

By ADA PATTERSON.

MISS THEODA BUSH, the young woman who amazed men and women athletes by scoring sixty-nine and a half points out of a possible seventy at the midwinter meet of the Radcliffe College girls, gives to all girls, athletic or otherwise, the advice: "Never mope nor whine."

It is good advice for both sexes and all ages. The figure that lives in my memory as the most contemptible I ever saw was a man who, bending his long, lazy figure over the kitchen stove for a warmth during a blizzard, whined, "I wish I were rich."

His wife wasted no time in such wishes. The kitchen pane rattled, the oven doors slammed with her vigor. A glance she cast at her lord was translatable even to my pudgy childhood. It was the fierce question, "Why don't you work instead of whine?"

The Working Woman

The grandest figure is a woman whom the world calls humble, a little working woman, who when her drunken husband had departed this life leaving her nothing but bitter memories, became a janitress to support herself, her two-year-old son and four-year-old daughter. That woman has worked without whining for twenty years. From her hard earnings she erected a fund against adversity, as her forbears built dikes to keep out the sea. She reared the boy to manhood and the girl to womanhood. She gave to each what she had been denied, a common school education. She kept them both and herself models of neatness. The disease inherited from their father carried each of them out of reach of her strong, loving arms. She buried them side by side in a trim plot in the village cemetery, which evergreens of her planting guard in Winter, and blooming plants she set out adorn in Summer. A little granddaughter inherited the transmitted scourge of the White Plague, and there is a third grave in a little plot in the village cemetery.

The little woman began her work the day after the funeral. She did it as thoroughly as ever, with the same evident interest in it and in her employers. Sometimes her face is a shade graver, but she forces the smile that makes her welcome everywhere as sunshine. I asked her once the secret of this brave exterior. She lifted her honest eyes and answered simply: "It never changes a thing to complain, and people don't like it."

This little serving woman is one of those persons whom "everybody likes." The difference between the popular and the unpopular person is this chief one, that one mopes and the other doesn't. The person who talks about himself is a bore, but the one who complains about his lot is intolerable. Every listener resents the egotism of the one who complains. "Every man has had some disappointment and it influences his life," Dickens reflects. The thought of this should check upon the lips every complaint. Why overweigh with double disappointments the man who already bears his own?

The Greatest Thing in the World

A man wrote a book on "The Greatest Thing in the World," and everyone bought the book to find out what is the greatest thing. They found that it is love. Another man wrote one entitled "What all the World is Seeking." Again there was a rush and all wondered why they had not guessed that what all the world is seeking is happiness. Let me humbly venture to tell what all the world admires. It is the courage to go on.

The contempt that the wholesome part of the world feels for the suicide is because he lacked the courage to go on. The universal scorn of the man who runs away is because he shows that lack.

It has become bad form to complain. Pessimism is obsolete. The professional grumbler has gone out. The cynic is no longer considered clever. It is the spirit of this dawn of a century to turn your face toward the sun and hope.

Courage is constructive. Every life is a structure into which it is the builder's duty to put his best material. The optimist builds steadily and well. The pessimist tears down his own work.

Everyone should sing a brave song or be silent. If conditions of our lives displease us we should do our utmost to improve them. The grumbler whines that no one cares for him. Why should anyone care for him? He adds nothing to the sum of the world's usefulness or happiness. Finding that he is self-centred, the world leaves him alone, as he deserves.

The world recognizes the courage to go on. It admires it, applauds it, rewards it.

BILLIARD ROOM FOR WOMEN

A PUBLIC billiard and poolroom for women is an innovation Hugo Kerkau, German billiard champion, has instituted in Berlin. He looks on the games as excellent exercise and recreation for them, and from his observation of their fondness for billiards and pool he became convinced such a room exclusively for women will prove popular. He recently opened it in his cafe, which has seating capacity for 4,000 persons. He has billiard rooms for men, too. Kerkau is a famous player and has crossed cues with Schaefer and other American champions.

Houghton & Dutton Successful.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence Houghton & Dutton, the popular druggists, have succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half-price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles that Houghton & Dutton are willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

So great is the demand for this specific that Houghton & Dutton have been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon them at once.

Sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50c.

Stealing Finery to Win a Man's Love

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

"YOU will come with me!"

Instinctively I turned. The words were low, but there was a strange tenseness, a suppressed excitement in the voice.

A plainly dressed woman, who I afterward learned was a store detective, had touched the arm of a girl who was leaning over the lace counter beside me.

"What do you mean?" The girl drew back haughtily, but even her lips had grown pale.

"You had better come with me quietly—it won't help you to make a scene."

The voice was still low, but several had heard it and were staring at the girl and the woman. It had been only a moment, and yet already there was a suppressed excitement in the air which those passing seemed to feel. They stopped and gathered around. How quickly people sense a situation.

The girl, now anxious to escape the gathering crowd, followed the woman without further protest, her eyes fixed straight in front of her, looking neither to one side nor the other. The woman, fearing she might slip away in the crowd, held her firmly by the arm.

"Shoplifting," some one whispered.

"What did she take?"

"What will they do with her?"

"She didn't look over eighteen." These were some of the comments of the crowd as they looked after the two figures soon lost in the mass of shoppers.

Not Like a Shoplifter

I happened to know slightly one of the assistant managers of the store, and while I was still waiting for my change he came up to make some inquiry of the clerk at the lace counter from which the goods had been taken.

He stopped and spoke to me. I expressed my distress at the incident.

"Oh, we have many of those," with a shrug of his shoulders. "We expect them—and look out for them. That was one of our best detectives—her fifth capture this week."

"But what will they do with the girl?" I asked. "She looked so young, rather a sweet face, I thought—not at all what one would expect of a shoplifter."

"Oh, you never can tell—we get all kinds."

"But suppose you make a mistake? What if the detectives thought she had taken something—and she hadn't?"

Her Paltry Loot

"That rarely happens. It does sometimes, of course, and it's very awkward. But this woman has never yet made a mistake. Would you like to go up to the office and watch developments? She's up there now."

I hesitated—it looked so much like mere curiosity. And then the memory of the girl's face and the thought that there might be something I could do made me go.

The office was at the rear of the store on the fifth floor. He opened a door marked "Private," and we went into a large room with several desks. At one of these was seated the girl, her face hidden in her hands, while a man stood beside her making notes. The woman detective and two other men were there.

On the desk were a lace collar, a pair of white gloves and two handkerchiefs.

One of the men came over to us. "It's a first case, we think. We'll scare her pretty thoroughly—and let her go. Goods not worth much", with a contemptuous wave toward the articles on the desk.

"But why—why did she take them?" I asked.

"For some dance she was going to tonight. In love with some fellow. Wanted to look pretty. Didn't have the money to buy things. We've lots of cases like that. Most of the small thefts are for some such reason."

"For Love of Some Man"

I looked at the lace collar, the white gloves and the two handkerchiefs. What a pitiful little array for which to risk so much!

"In love with some fellow and wanted to look pretty." And she thought he would love her more in her stolen finery! For love of some man—it always comes back to that. To what lengths will not women go to obtain the trinkets with which to adorn themselves for the man they love?

And yet how few men notice the details of a woman's costume. If she is neat and attractive, the accessories of a new collar or belt go unobserved.

How many heartaches might be spared her if the woman could only realize that the finery she so longs for and cannot afford is not nearly so essential to her happiness as she thinks. That the love which is dependent on a mere matter of personal adornment is a most superficial and unstable love—and one which in the end she is much better off without.

Gold Dust

Does more than clean

Your pots, pans, kettles, dishes, knives, and other utensils need more than mere cleaning. Soap and water simply clean the surface. Gold Dust not only cleanses but sterilizes—it drives out every bit of dirt or hidden germs which are bound to lurk in oft-used utensils. It will leave your kitchen things not only clean, but sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust will enable you to do your work more quickly, save your strength, and give you better results than soap or any other cleanser.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

When dull spots can be picked out here and there in the business situation, it must be admitted that the United States is enjoying prosperity never before equalled in its history.

$ $ $

The stock market is at high levels, although it is extremely dull. The peculiar situation exists that although bonds can hardly be disposed of at current prices, and although stocks are dull, nobody seems anxious to sell.

$ $ $

Russell Sage used to say that nearly everything that he worried about in the street never happened. In later years he went deliberately contrary to fears and aspirations. He found that while it was theoretically correct to take a long look ahead, it was a short look ahead that really paid. State Street just now is looking so far ahead that it cannot see the golden opportunities of the immediate future. The very nature of the problems over which Wall Street is worrying is such that their solution cannot be hoped for within two or three or perhaps five years.

$ $ $

In many directions it is, of course, between seasons. Attention is being directed to the crops, and this tendency will be increased the next few months, for it is recognized that seldom, if ever, has the business outlook depended so much upon the agricultural harvests as is the case this year. The "bluest" section is in the East. Conditions and confidence improve as one goes West and South from New England.

$ $ $

Bank clearings still make a remarkably good showing. There is a falling off in New England and not much change in New York, but in the West the increases are still constant, getting steadily larger as New England becomes more distant. Railroad earnings also are surprisingly good when the uncertainties of general trade are considered.

Thomas H. Ross, vice-president of the Chicago & Alton, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Minneapolis & St. Louis and Iowa Central Railroads, says: "By the time the Alton has spent 40 per cent. of the $18,000,000 it is now raising by a bond issue there will not be a finer property in all the West. As it is, to-day the Alton is a magnificent road.

Very favorable dividend talk is reported responsible for the buying of Rock Island preferred. As a 5 per cent. issue, the rate to which it is entitled, the stock should be near par. The outlook for the Rock Island Company is very bright, with the new foreign interest prominent in the more conservative management. This is why the common has been bought so well of late.

There has been the best of absorption in Smelting during the week just past, according to the information received by some of the best houses in the Street. The stock has been heavily oversold and therefore it would be an easy matter to bring about a run-in of the shorts. Those on the inside have the utmost confidence in the ability of the stock to do better.

To-morrow the foster children of finance, as M. Beaulieu calls speculators, will know how much of a dividend they must meet on their short sales of Steel common. Action of Steel's directors will be more vital to them than to the mass of genuine stockholders.

The stock market has gone through a period of emotional insanity in which every investor has told everybody else that he ought to sell, but he himself has not sold. The outlook for the Summer is abundant crops and at least a temporary reduction in the prices of commodities.

BROCKTON FIREMAN HURT IN RUNAWAY

BROCKTON, April 25.—Driver George Selig of Hose 1 was thrown from his seat to-day and his right shoulder was broken. He was going to a fire. Selig lost control of his horses, which swerved into a fence and came to a halt. The shock threw him against the pole of the apparatus. He rolled to the ground between his horses.

MARKET HEAVY; PRICES DOWN

NEW YORK, April 25.—Unfavorable weather reports from the Western and Middle States caused heaviness in the stock market in Wall Street to-day. Liberal sales of standard railroad and industrial shares caused declines ranging from 1 to 1½ points. Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Amalgamated Copper and Smelters showed losses of over a point. Rock Island declined 1¼ points.

Railroad officials in the West announced that business continues to show large increases in freight, merchandise being handled at present being 10 per cent. greater than that for the corresponding period of last year. American shares were heavy in London. No material price changes were recorded by stocks on the New York curb.

Are You Building or Planning a House?

Some Things to Think Of. No. 1—The Lot On Which You Build

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

Among those who read this newspaper, thousands are building or planning individual houses and homes for themselves. The development of rapid transit facilities is, luckily for the children, taking families more and more out of the crowded cities into the suburbs. This newspaper has urged people to go into the country, and will continue to urge every man who can to sacrifice some comfort, some time at the beginning and at the end of the day, in order to give his children the benefits of life in the country, sunshine and fresh air.

We want to talk over with our readers, building or intending to build, some of the important leading points to be considered.

First, of course, comes the question "WHERE SHALL I BUILD?"

Don't be led away by false promises of real estate agents, or by the sincere delusions of real estate agents. Look at all of the announcements, go and see the land, verify for yourself everything that is said, AND THEN DECIDE.

For your children's sake, build within reach of a good school.

If a school is to be built—AND YOU ARE SURE THAT IT IS TO BE BUILT—then build near the proposed location.

Build on healthy ground—that is even more important to a child than the school neighborhood. For, first, the child wants health; other things follow.

Keep away from swamps, keep away from stagnant water.

Build where there is plenty of fresh air. It is not necessary to build on a hill, but you must not build BEHIND A HILL that shuts off the breeze in Summer. On the level ground, where the wind has a free sweep, the air is as good as on top of any hill, unless the hill be very high.

Keep out of hollows, keep out of the shade of big hills that cut off the air. Select, if you can, sandy, gravelly soil, with good drainage.

Look out especially for MALARIA. Find out from some honest local doctor upon whom you can rely whether there is malaria in the immediate neighborhood. If there is, keep away from it.

Then, when you have picked out the best possible place for your children, think of your wife.

Try to find a place within reach of the church that she attends. Many immediate neighbors are not important—if you pick out the right place there will be plenty of neighbors very soon. Get your location within reach of a good circulating library if you can, and within reach of good stores, AND NOT TOO LONELY.

Last of all, think about YOURSELF. Look up the railroad facilities, find out how long it will take you to get from your house to your work. Remember that time tables are not changed to suit one particular commuter. Remember that it is safer to rely upon the facilities of to-day than to look forward to the promises of to-morrow. But don't be too doubtful. If you have reason to believe that transportation facilities now imperfect will soon be better, take the land now, FOR ITS VALUE WILL INCREASE WITH BETTER TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES.

Look up time tables; make up your mind how far you can walk every day to and from the station. Make up your mind how much time you are willing to give getting to and from your work, and let that influence your final decision.

Try to get a piece of ground big enough to contain two or three houses such as you mean to build. Put your house in one extreme corner of the ground, with very little land to protect it from the next lot on that side. Then use all the rest of your land for gardens, or lawns, or tennis court. If you pick wisely, the extra land will some day pay for your entire house, pay all your expenses and taxes, or give you a comfortable fortune to leave to your children.

SELECT CAREFULLY THE GROUND BEFORE YOU START TO BUILD A HOUSE.

Many other things are to be considered. We shall talk of them occasionally.

There is the kitchen range—most important.

There is the heating of the house, very important from the point of view of happiness, health and economy.

There is the style of building, endless other details.

We will talk these over with the building readers one at a time.

Governor Hughes for the Supreme Court?

From Many Points of View an Excellent Suggestion. BUT WHAT ABOUT THE INCOME TAX?

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

It is said—upon what authority we do not know—that President Taft has offered to Governor Hughes of New York the place on the United States Supreme Court bench made vacant by the death of Justice Brewer.

Mr. Taft—if he has selected Governor Hughes to fill the place—has unquestionably selected a very able lawyer. He has selected in Governor Hughes a man of judicial temperament. Probably, to the great body of lawyers and of business men in the country, Governor Hughes would be most acceptable.

But—and we say it with regret—he would be infinitely more acceptable to the handful of very rich men and to those that own railroads.

For Governor Hughes vetoed the bill that would have given the people of New York State the very reasonable privilege of limiting the charge for railroad fares to two cents a mile.

And, what is vastly more important, Governor Hughes went out of his way in a public document to make himself champion of those that oppose that most just of all taxes—THE INCOME TAX.

There is much that is good in Governor Hughes's record. He has undoubtedly the respect of a great many respectable men. In his fight on public gambling in the State of New York he has rendered a genuine public service. And in his aggressive attitude toward graft and grafters he has deserved well of his fellow citizens.

But, inasmuch as he has declared himself in advance in regard to the Income Tax, and inasmuch as President Taft is generally supposed to look upon the Income Tax in a friendly, or at least a neutral way, we should hardly think that Mr. Taft would place upon the Supreme bench KNOWINGLY a man who in advance has declared himself against the tax that the great majority of the American citizens demand.

It seems to this newspaper that, unless Mr. Taft has decided in his own mind that the Income Tax is undesirable, he would scarcely appoint to the Supreme bench a man who IN ADVANCE has declared positively ag[illegible] the Income Tax principle.

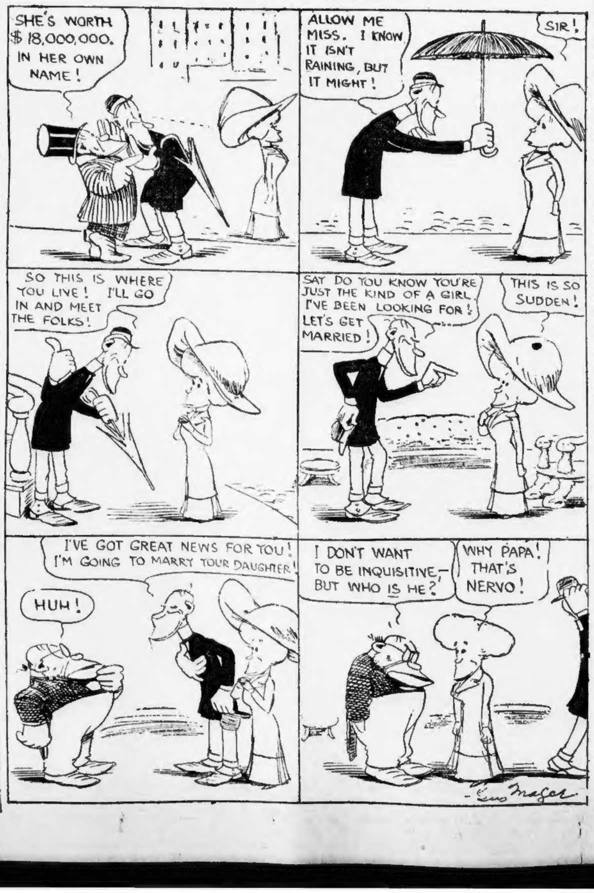
HE PROPOSES MARRIAGE



SHE'S WORTH $18,000,000. IN HER OWN NAME!
ALLOW ME MISS. I KNOW IT ISN'T RAINING, BUT IT MIGHT!
SIR!
SO THIS IS WHERE YOU LIVE! I'LL GO IN AND MEET THE FOLKS!
SAY DO YOU KNOW YOU'RE JUST THE KIND OF A GIRL I'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR! LET'S GET MARRIED!
THIS IS SO SUDDEN!
I'VE GOT GREAT NEWS FOR YOU! I'M GOING TO MARRY YOUR DAUGHTER!
HUH!
I DON'T WANT TO BE INQUISITIVE—BUT WHO IS HE?
WHY PAPA! THAT'S NERVO!

ELBERT HUBBARD'S ARTICLE

THE PLAYER-FOLK

Written for the Boston American.

By ELBERT HUBBARD

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE drama reached its height in Greece in the time of Pericles. Also, sculpture reached perfection [illegible] ever.

Let the further fact be noted that the arts of the drama and sculpture both sprang out of love of the human form.

Had Greece not gloried in contemplation of the human body, her art would have been a minus quantity and died aborning.

All genuine art had its rise in love, laughter, joy and exuberant health.

The art that is sick is unspeakable.

Vaudeville is vital only as it has the spontaneity which springs from health.

A goodly dash of the Spartan spirit was necessary to the Dorian soul of the drama. That glowing health—the processions of naked youths, the singing of songs as they went into battle—all these found favor in peaceful days in the Greek chorus and the measured, stately plays of Aeschylus.

When, by the division of labor, you separate literature from life, you get a weak and degenerate thing—a thing of cigarettes, patchouli, absinthe, dyspepsia and nerves that lead the ways to dusty death.

No man who does not breathe deeply and well and eat moderately can hope for recognition on the stage.

Literature does not make this physical exaction on her candidate; and so you see why the man of letters on the stage does not spell his name "Cummings," but "Goings." For him it is not banzai, but abas.

No people on earth are so true to their art as the actors.

The stage is to life what sparkling wine is to water.

When I lecture I always do a lot of writing during the day. But when I play, aber nicht, mox nix, nottings diddings.

The stage says, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

Every living person does the thing he can do—the thing that is in his nature to do. And, strangely enough, the things a man cannot do, he doesn't.

And often the thing he is not up on, he is down on.

Life is expression. He lives most who expresses most. Not to express is not to live.

Every person expresses as he can; each in his own way. Some carry small voltage, others more.

The way to replenish your dynamo is to pay out your voltage, and vaudeville is one way of turning the current of your life through ten thousand other lives.

A man is a storage battery of divine energy.

Vaudeville is a form of entertainment, incidentally of instruction. As such, it is as legitimate as letters, or the art of the painter, illustrator or sculptor.

For instance, I am writing this article and you are reading it. Had I not played in vaudeville I would not have written on the subject. Literature is a confession—he knows most who has seen most and experienced most.

My knowledge of vaudeville and busting broncos was not gained through a correspondence course.

Vaudeville is a system or plan for vividly presenting art to the people. All art is liable to misuse and abuse.

The written word is not always sweetly innocent of shame; often in the past it has carried a color that borders on gamboge and a flavor that is Neuchatel. Pictoral art is not always chaste as the Ice Trust—pure as snow.

To the poor all things are poor. Let it go at that.

Blame the Comet

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK

WHEN inclined to rail at fate,
Blame the comet.
When you reach your office late,
Blame the comet.
If you're just about to swear,
Assume an Eva Tanguay air
And whistle softly, "I Don't Care,"
And blame the comet.

PRICES soar into the sky,
Blame the comet.
Tariff schedules go awry,
Blame the comet.
Halley's star, in its new role,
Courts the vent of each tried soul;
It may have fooled Cook on the Pole!
So blame the comet.

WHEN your ball team fails to score,
Blame the comet.
When your best friend proves a bore,
Blame the comet.
Indict it for each ache and pain,
For burning heat, for soaking rain;
You'll never get the chance again
To blame the comet!

He Writes About Pa's New Excuse

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

PA has a new excuse now, every time Ma asks for a new hat or anything. The naim of his new excuse is The Cost of Living. He has a lot of fun with Ma, but Ma doant have much fun with him, beekause Pa maiks the excuse a good one.

Last nite wen Pa caim noam, Ma sed to him, Deerest Luv, I haven't saw you looking so well for a month. In fack, Ma sed, you look like the one (1) of them old Greek gods wich I saw the other day down to the museum. You are thin, not too thin, & you have the wide shoulders of a Jim Corbett.

Well, sed Pa, I guess you are right at that, but sumthing seems to tell me that you have an ul-teerior motive back of all this oil wich you are handing me. What do you want, deer, & maik it as reasonabel as possibel.

I want a new hat, sed Ma, a sort of orchard like effeck, with a few blossoms & sum plums on it, & a hen setting on a cuppel of colored eggs. The whole thing will only stand me $40 (forty) dollars, on account of the lady milliner having sed that she knew you beefoar I caim to Boston. Do I get it?

Well, sed Pa, owing to the high cost of living, I am afrade that I cannot acksede to yure re-quest. How wud a nice lid suit you at say about six bones, a hat with a few minor leeg fethers on it, a small bunch of Spring's first flours, & a ribbon.

If you doant want me to have the kind of a hat I want, sed Ma, I doant want any hat at all. That is the way I am, sed Ma, ether I get the kind of a hat I want or I doant want any hat at all, & by the way, Ma sed, I must git sum new Spring frocks. I am tired of waring all these Winter sutes. This one (1) that I have on, I have lived in for six weeks. I was talking to a vary pritty dress maker the other day, & she toald me that she cud make me three frocks for three hundred dollars. She sed that she wud charge any other woman three hundred & ten dollars, but wud make them for me for three hundred on account of having known you beefoar you & me was married.

Well, deer hart, sed Pa, owing to the high cost of living, I regret to report that I cannot buy you three (3) frocks. How wud you like to have a nice tooth brush instead? I see that the one you have been using has lost a bristle. It is jest this way, sed Pa, I cant do what I cant do, & wen I have the coin I cum acrost, & wen I havent got the coin I doant cum acrost, not if you called me Deerest Luv till you got black in the face.

Now, sed Pa, I will tell you what I will do. I will buy you a apron & let you do the house work. I am going to fire the cook. Owing to the high price of living, I cannot aff-ord to main-tain a meenial. Jest think what a treet it will be for you, sed Pa, to go in the kitchen & fry potatoes & maik coffee, & not have any servant to talk back to you. Of course I wud like to have several servants, & a butler & footman bee-sides, but owing to the high price of living, I cant see my way cleer.

Then Pa went out that nite & lost eighty ($80) playing stud poaker.

It costs a lot to live.

Household Hints

By WEX JONES

Rainy weather, such as we sometimes have in April, exerts a very depressing influence upon most people, but one should strive against this and endeavor to be cheerful and to make others cheerful. Try this plan on getting up on a rainy morning: Look out of the window and say, "It appears to be raining, but the sun is shining; if not here, in Venezuela." Repeat this until you burst into glad smiles, and your family, if they do not send you to an asylum for observation, will soon be as merry as if on a picnic on a sunny day in June. Another good plan is to imagine that one is a duck and greet the rain with gladsome quacks.

Many persons have found difficulty in spearing a pickle in a narrow-necked bottle. As good a way as any is to look through the bottom of the bottle and make terrifying faces. Then, when the pickle retreats to the top, be ready to harpoon it quickly. Should the quarry, in its fright, jump out of the bottle, a twenty-two-calibre rifle will be found invaluable for stopping it on the table.

Fried Ham and Eggs—Slice some ham. Peel some eggs. Fry.

For the Summer home there are many attractive pieces of furniture. Perhaps the most popular is that known as the deck chair. This gets its name from the fact that when you sit down in it suddenly it folds up and lets you bump on the deck. It is a useful article, as it keeps the onlookers amused. Wickerwork furniture has a pleasing rustic appearance, and if not used will generally last throughout the season.
